Basketball royalty will be crowned at the coliseum today and tonight as the Nebraska High School basketball tournament unfolds champions in four classes.

Opening with the Class C title match between Syracuse and Franklin at 9:30 a.m., the parade of champions closes with the Class A finale at 8:35 p.m. between Benson and Hastings.

Hastings' driving play dropped Lincoln High, 61-52, in the semifinals Friday night. Benson's ticket to the finals was far easier as the Bunnies handily eliminated Alliance, 55-35.

Tecumseh, a 51-45 loser to Teachers during the regular season, reached the finals by edging Loup City, 45-40. Teachers, paced by a 21-point performance by tall Jim Thom, was pushed hard to tip a smooth-passing Minden team, 45-41.

Syracuse whipped Chadron Prep, 42-37, and Franklin pushed past Geneva, 58-55, in the Class C semifinals.

Millard loomed as the Class D favorite after smashing Edison, 68-39. Western was an easy 67-54 winner over Palmyra.

U.S. Planes 'Attacked'

... Czech Border

VIENNA (Saturday) (AP)—The Prague Radio said today Communist Czechoslovakia has protested to the United States against an alleged violation of that country's territory by two U. S. planes.

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Two U. S. military planes flying near the Czechoslovak border were attacked Friday by a Soviet-made jet MIG, Bavarian police reported.

The State Department in Washington hours later confirmed the German report that there had been an attack on two U. S. military aircraft.

The State Department said it was unable to give details, but said both planes landed safely after the incident though the tail of one was shot up.

There were indications that U. S. Navy carrier planes from the Mediterranean fleet were those involved.

A U. S. Sixth Fleet spokesman in London said the Navy had planes from the Mediterranean-based carriers in the area Friday, but "whether they were Navy planes which were attacked we do not know yet."

The U. S. Air Force headquarters at Wiesbaden and the U. S. Army headquarters at Heidelberg said they were unable to confirm any attack on American planes.

Bavarian border police said eyewitnesses saw the attack at 7:50 feet in hazy weather and afterwards found empty aircraft gun shells on the ground near Waldmunchen.

Mitchell Places McCarthy Issue At Ike's Doorstep; National Farm Situation Blasted

By EARL DYER
Star Staff Writer

Democratic National Chairman Stephen Mitchell Friday night laid the McCarthy-Zwicker-Stevens issue squarely at the doorstep of President Eisenhower in a fighting political speech which also hit strongly at Nebraska issues such as the farm program and rural electrification.

The Democratic official told an audience of more than 300 Nebraska Democrats at a working conference that the American people have become "inflamed over the Zwicker incident."

"They thought the President they elected would protect the Constitutional system of government," he said.

Flat Charge
Referring to "disorder and confusion," he made the flat charge that "this Republican Administration is permitting the Executive to be dominated by one Republican senator and a Republican Senate."

"The people of the United States will not allow this Republican senator to disrupt our constitutional system or deprive citizens of their individual rights," he declared.

Mitchell declared that the place to "stop this recession" is "where it began — on the nation's farms and ranches."

He said the economic trouble was clear last spring, but that the Republicans "either don't know the facts or don't care."

He recited figures on the drop in cattle prices, charging that they were the opposite at many points, to the assurances of Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson.

Farm Prices
Charging that while farm prices were dropping, and costs were not, Mitchell declared that Eisenhower has finally come up with "this solution . . . reduce price supports and let the prices fall still further."

"This sounds like saying to a drowning man, 'what you need is more water,'" Mitchell said.

"If butter doesn't drop at least eight cents a pound around April 1," he said, "the housewives ought to make Ezra Benson eat his golden promise. If he doesn't, they should demand to know who got the eight cents."

"One of the catch phrases of the Republicans is that farmers are so hard up that they have to wash their own Cadillac. I for one have never seen why farmers shouldn't have as many Cadillacs as any other group. . . . What's good for the farmers should be good for General Motors."

Mitchell claimed that average income of farmers per capita was $882 last year, "while the same figure for people not living on farms was $1,898—or more than double."

'Fallen Off'
"What's more," he said, "the farm figure had fallen off $23 per person . . . about $100 for every farm family."

"Indivisible," Mitchell said, "is indivisible." The administration, he said, is "setting city consumers against country producers . . . (it) will hurt us all."

Firing the charge that "the Eisenhower Republicans have set out to dismantle one after another of the economic programs of such great importance to our Western states," Mitchell cited the "dim-out of the great rural electrification program."

The Republicans "have desecrated the memory of our pioneers who saw and fought for the development of Western resources," he said. "And no state had more of these pioneers than Nebraska did."

"Some of those great leaders were Republicans . . ."

He charged that "Private power companies are now calling the tune in Washington," and that "in four years of Republican rule, there is lots of time for damage."

Stating that the ceiling on the western region's prosperity is the use of creeks and rivers for irrigation, flood control and power, Mitchell charged that "The Republican administration has made a deliberate decision not to develop to the full the potential of our western rivers."

Mitchell struck at Assistant Interior Secretary Aandahl for referring to the public power "preference clause" as "academic."

Mitchell cited the recommendations of the Missouri Basin Commission, headed by "your own Jim Lawrence, editor of The Lincoln Star and long-time champion of the people in the Missouri Valley."

Winding up with a plea to elect good congressmen and senators, Mitchell said the nation "needs constructive leadership just as fast as we can deliver it."

"The only solution" to the problems, he said, "is to elect enough Democratic congressmen to protect the programs we fought so hard to get."

Stevens, McCarthy Mix Again; Lie And Blackmail Claims Fly

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and Army Secretary Stevens collided again as charges and counter charges of pressure, blackmail and lying exploded around the case of a drafted member of McCarthy's subcommittee staff.

From a bi-partisan majority of McCarthy's subcommittee—three democrats and one republican—came a clamor for a fast investigation to get the whole story of what has been going on behind the scenes.

What set off the latest spectacular flare-up within and around the McCarthy subcommittee was an Army report accusing the Wisconsin senator and his chief counsel, Roy Cohn, of turning on pressure for favored treatment for Pvt. David Schunk.

Schunk is Cohn's pal and was a consultant to the McCarthy committee until he was drafted into the Army last November.

(At Camp Gordon, Ga., Pvt. Schunk declined to see newsmen and the Army said it would not force him to talk publicly. Schunk is undergoing basic training in military police work at Camp Gordon.)

McCarthy bitterly protested that the report was an attempt at "blackmail." Just as bitterly, Stevens protested McCarthy's release of an unsigned memorandum the senator said was from committee files—a memo that said Stevens had asked that the subcommittee shift its hunt for Reds from the Army to the Air Force, Navy and Defense Department.

"Utterly untrue," the Army Secretary said.

Army Report Stirs It Up
He and McCarthy have warred before—over McCarthy's treatment of Army officers called as witnesses.

Assistant Defense Secretary Fred A. Seaton of Nebraska said that if McCarthy's charges were correctly reported, he would "advise the Army that they'd better answer."

Seaton added that McCarthy telephoned him earlier and asked that the Pentagon report on Cohn be held up until the senator could present "the other side."

Asked if the Army report on Cohn had Defense Department "blessing," Seaton said: "There's no blessing about it. The witnesses said they were giving the facts. I was simply a consultant."

The Army report at the heart of the newest clash said Cohn told Stevens he would be "through" and the army "wrecked" if Schunk was sent overseas. It said McCarthy repeatedly advised the Army to treat Schunk like any other soldier—but also repeatedly asked that he be assigned to the New York area, where he could assist the subcommittee on the side.

Senate sources turned loose the report a day earlier. There was immediate chain reaction.

Sen. Potter (R-Mich) a member of the McCarthy subcommittee, summoned reporters to his office to give them a statement saying the report contained "most shocking charges" and Cohn should be fired if they were true. He said he had written McCarthy, asking for a subcommittee session to look into the charges.

A subcommittee session is unlikely, though before sometime next week.

The three Democrats on the subcommittee, Sen. McClellan (Ark), Symington (Mo) and Jackson (Wash), also whipped out a statement saying they assumed McCarthy would call one soon to "discuss the report and determine what action should be taken."

Move Pressed To Save Two Historic Warships

WASHINGTON (INS)—A House Armed Services Subcommittee unanimously approved a bill to save two historic warships—the U.S.S. Constellation and the U.S.S. Hartford—from the scrap heap.

The legislation, which now goes to the full Armed Services Committee, would give the Constellation to the city of Baltimore, and the Hartford to the city of Mobile, Ala.

Both cities have requested the vessels to preserve them as public memorials. The Navy will pay the costs of towing the ships to the two cities, but restoration costs will be borne by the cities.

Beck Seeks Att'y. General Post Again

Attorney General C. S. Beck of North Platte late Friday filed with the secretary of state for re-nomination on the Republican ticket. He is the first of his party to file.

The Beck filing was the climax of a strenuous day in the attorney general's office. The Supreme Court had decided in their favor on four tax cases which had been argued by Chauncey Sheldon, assistant attorney general.

Sheldon was in Washington arguing before the U. S. Supreme Court on behalf of the state a tax case in which Braniff Airlines oppose paying state taxes.

Beck who served as assistant attorney general became deputy on return from World War I. He served overseas in both world wars. He was appointed attorney general in 1950 when James H. Anderson resigned. He was re-elected in 1950 and 1952.

He was graduated from the University of Nebraska College of Law and later served as county attorney of Lincoln County. He has served as head of the bar association, Elks and American Legion in his home city.

Lines Are Down, Traffic Snarled

Northeast Nebraska Isolated; Forecaster Says Worst Over

Nebraska, particularly the northern and western portions, lay prostrate under the effects of an old-fashioned spring snowstorm Saturday morning as the weather bureau reported the worst had passed.

Forecasters said that the snow would get no worse during the remainder of the night and would diminish fairly rapidly in the morning.

Highway travel was at a virtual standstill. All roads out of Lincoln were blocked by ice and snow, the Safety Patrol reported. Blocked highways were reported west of Gothenburg and Culbertson and north of Norfolk.

Everything in the book—high wind, dust, snow and sleet—was thrown at residents of the Panhandle and the southwestern corner of the state.

The Burlington reported that the eastbound Denver-to-Lincoln highway had been delayed four hours by the storm in the McCook area. The railroad also reported a number of freights slowed.

Trains traveled only with difficulty and the westbound bus for Denver was being held in Lincoln because of the road conditions.

The Safety Patrol issued warnings discouraging travel on any highways in the state.

The snowfall in Lincoln, with more coming down, totaled about one inch early Saturday morning. Precipitation was about one-half inch.

Blizzard-Trapped Tourney Visitors Find 'No Vacancy'

A driving blizzard and hundreds of out-staters attending the state basketball tourney created a "No Vacancy" situation in every motel and hotel in Lincoln.

Lincoln's motels and hotels reported a critical housing situation with hundreds of calls and persons stopping even where "No Vacancy" signs were plainly showing.

Many of the motels had been filled since Friday noon and even since the basketball tourney began.

The State Safety Patrol reported they had received more than 300 calls Friday night from persons checking on road conditions.

The patrol warned all motorists that "driving was not recommended" and expected hazardous conditions to continue.

Lincoln Police were busy untangling traffic tangles, investigating more than 20 accidents Friday and placing cinders and salt on especially dangerous intersections.

Group Stranded

Dozens of stranded persons littered the hotel lobbies in Lincoln.

One unlucky couple, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Alexander of Omaha, sat through the night in the Lincoln Hotel while their daughter slept comfortably in a reserved hotel room at the Cornhusker Hotel.

"We intended to go back to night but the Highway Patrol turned us back," Mrs. Alexander said.

Five high school students from Litchfield were also feeling miserable in the lobby among the other stranded out-staters.

Seward, including the Wahoo and Columbus areas, were "hazardous," covered with packed snow and ice, according to the Patrol report. The same situation prevailed around Nebraska City.

All flights into Lincoln Friday were canceled because of reduced visibility.

As it has so often in the past, high wind ruined chances of material benefits from snow which fell in the Nebraska Panhandle. That area of the state, in which dust has been whipped into dry drifts during the last few weeks, will probably gain little from the badly blown and piled snow which fell Thursday and Friday.

A. E. Anderson, State-Federal crop statistician, said the good the snow would do would hinge upon how evenly it lay on the ground. Reports of heavy drifting indicated that the dry, level fields caught little of the snow.

Anderson said a recent survey of the region showed topsoil to be dry down to a depth of several inches.

Visibility at McCook was reduced to about 50 yards as violent winds whipped up the sticky snow. Conditions at Grant, Imperial and Benkelman were reported to be even worse.

The State Highway Department reported that roads west of McCook were packed with snow and ice. Visibility was almost nil on the high elevations. Six to eight inches of snow had piled up with the storm extending into eastern Colorado where 24 inches were on the ground.

Highways in the Panhandle, where not blocked by snow, were treacherous from ice and packed snow. Up to seven inches had been dumped on the Scottsbluff area by Friday night. Gusts of wind up to 55 miles an hour struck at Imperial.

Cuts in the hills between Sidney and Dalton were drifted shut, stopping all traffic west and north.

Northeast Nebraska was isolated as high winds and wet snow snapped communication lines. All points beyond Norfolk had no phone service after Friday noon, as up to one-half inch of ice clung to the lines.

The Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. reported that 180 long distance circuits were out and 30 towns, including Humphrey, Laurel, Randolph and Belgrade, were cut off. Service at Norfolk was on an emergency basis.

Fire Loss Is $175,000

SCOTT'S BLUFF (AP)—Snow-blocked roads brought two near-disasters in the Scottsbluff area. A potato cellar fire, estimated at a $175,000 loss, raged while Minutaire volunteer firemen lost the battle of the drifts.

Earlier the Nebraska Safety Patrol and Highway Department rescued Henry Adams of Henry, who had suffered a shoulder injury after a fall from the roof of a house he was re-shingling.

The potato cellar, owned by Dale Redding and leased to the Nelson Jay Potato Co., was three miles east and one mile and a quarter north of Minutaire. Only a few men were able to reach the scene in an attempt to save the four trucks, machinery, potatoes, sacks and equipment.

Jay said he had not been able to reach the cellar to see the ruins, but he estimated loss of equipment at $74,000. Redding estimated loss of the cellar at $100,000. A railroad car parked on the siding next to the cellar was also destroyed.

Adams was rescued when Lt. Morgan Lambert of the Gering patrol station received a call informing him that the injured man was snowbound five miles north and one mile east of Henry.

Relatives met the Highway Department snowplow and Patrolman Dick Brandenburg after opening a mile and a half of country road west to the highway.

Elevator Shaft Fall Kills Lincolnite, 62

David Schunk, 62, an employee of Gold and Company, was found dead, his head and chest crushed, Friday afternoon at the bottom of an elevator shaft in the store.

Dep. Sheriff Del Ziemann, acting coroner, said the fatal accident apparently occurred sometime before the store's business hours, but that Schunk's body was not found until about 3:30 p.m.

Schunk, who was chief of the store's day maintenance crew, "apparently fell down the elevator shaft from an upper floor" sometime about 7 a.m., when he was last seen in the store, and prior to 9:30 a.m., when the store opened, Ziemann said.

Store officials told Ziemann that Schunk, who traveled from floor to floor in the supervision of his crew, sometimes used a wire hook to open elevator doors and operate the elevators when regular operators were not yet on duty.

Ziemann said Schunk apparently opened the door of an elevator he thought was on the floor and walked into an empty shaft. Schunk's flashlight, with a huge dent, and the elevator hook he used were found beside his body at the bottom of the shaft. It was not determined immediately.

Schunk's injuries were caused entirely by the fall, or possibly aggravated later by the operation of the elevator.

Schunk's body was found by Peter Stokli, a store employee, after store officials, apprehensive about his unexplained disappearance, conducted a store-wide search.

Mr. Schunk, a widower who lived at 1118 C, had been employed at Golds since 1937.

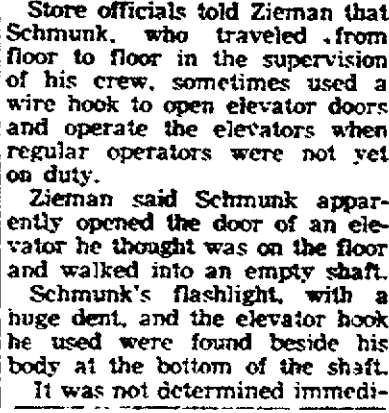

Born in Russia, he had lived in Oklahoma and in Scottsbluff before coming to Lincoln 27 years ago.

"Surviving are his sons, Walter of Lincoln, Henry and Harold, both of Scottsbluff, and Fred of Gary, Ind.; nine grandchildren; one great grandson; a brother, Henry, and a sister, Mrs. Julia Specht, both of Scottsbluff."

Stevens, McCarthy Mix Again; Lie And Blackmail Claims Fly

WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and Army Secretary Stevens collided again as charges and counter charges of pressure, blackmail and lying exploded around the case of a drafted member of McCarthy's subcommittee staff.

From a bi-partisan majority of McCarthy's subcommittee—three democrats and one republican—came a clamor for a fast investigation to get the whole story of what has been going on behind the scenes.

What set off the latest spectacular flare-up within and around the McCarthy subcommittee was an Army report accusing the Wisconsin senator and his chief counsel, Roy Cohn, of turning on pressure for favored treatment for Pvt. David Schine.

Schine is Conn's pal and was a consultant to the McCarthy committee until he was drafted into the Army last November.

(At Camp Gordon, Ga., Pvt. Schine declined to see newsmen and the Army said it would not force him to talk publicly. Schine is undergoing basic training in military police work at Camp Gordon.)

McCarthy bitterly protested that the report was an attempt at "blackmail." Just as bitterly, Stevens protested McCarthy's release of an unsigned memorandum the senator said was from committee files—a memo that said Stevens had asked that the subcommittee shift its hunt for Reds from the Army to the Air Force, Navy and Defense Department.

"Utterly untrue," the Army Secretary said.

Army Report Stirs It Up
He and McCarthy have warred before—over McCarthy's treatment Schine like any other soldier—but also repeatedly asked that he be assigned to the New York area, where he could assist the subcommittee on the side.

Senate sources turned loose the report a day earlier. There was immediate chain reaction:

Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) a member of the McCarthy subcommittee, summoned reporters to his office to give them a statement saying the report contained "most shocking charges" and Cohn should be fired if they were true. He said he had written McCarthy, asking for a subcommittee session to look into the charges.

A subcommittee session is unlikely, though before sometime next week.

The three democrats on the subcommittee, Sen. McClellan (Ark.), Symington (Mo.) and Jackson (Wash.), also whipped out a statement saying they assumed McCarthy would call one soon to "discuss the report and determine what action should be taken."

The Senate Republican leadership, apparently a bit miffed that it didn't get copies of the Army report, likewise seemed to think an investigation was in order. The Senate majority leader, Sen. Knowland of California, said:

Move Pressed To Save Two Historic Warships

WASHINGTON (INS)—A House Armed Services Subcommittee unanimously approved a bill to save two historic warships—the U.S.S. Constellation and the U.S.S. Hartford—from the scrap heap.

The legislation, which now goes to the full Armed Services Committee, would give the Constellation to the city of Baltimore, and the Hartford to the city of Mobile, Ala.

Both cities have requested the vessels to preserve them as public memorials. The Navy will pay the costs of towing the ships to the two cities, but restoration costs will be borne by the cities.

atly, Zieman said, whether Schumuck's injuries were caused entirely by the fall, or possibly aggravated later by the operation of the elevator.

Schumuck's body was found by Peter Stoki, a store employee, after store officials, apprehensive about his unexplained disappearance, conducted a store-wide search.

Mr. Schumuck, a widower who lived at 1118 C, had been employed at Golds since 1937.

Born in Russia, he had lived in Oklahoma and in Scottsbluff before coming to Lincoln 27 years ago.

Surviving are his sons, Walter of Lincoln, Henry and Harold, both of Scottsbluff, and Fred of Gary, Ind.; nine grandchildren; one great grandson; a brother, Henry, and a sister, Mrs. Julia Specht, both of Scottsbluff.

He was graduated from the University of Nebraska College of Law and later served as county attorney of Lincoln County. He has served as head of the bar association, Elks and American Legion in his home city.

Lines Are Down, Traffic Snarled

Northeast Nebraska Isolated; Forecaster Says Worst Over

Nebraska, particularly the northern and western portions, lay prostrate under the effects of an old-fashioned spring snowstorm Saturday morning as the weather bureau reported the worst had passed.

Forecasters said that the snow would get no worse during the remainder of the night and would diminish fairly rapidly in the morning.

Highway travel was at a virtual standstill. All roads out of Lincoln were blocked by ice and snow, the Safety Patrol reported.

Blocked highways were reported west of Gothenburg and Culbertson and north of Norfolk.

Everything in the book—high wind, dust, snow and sleet—was thrown at residents of the Panhandle and the southwestern corner of the state.

The Burlington reported that the eastbound Denver-to-Lincoln Zephyr had been delayed four hours by the storm in the McCook area. The railroads also reported a number of freights slowed.

Buses traveled only with difficulty and the westbound bus for Denver was being held in Lincoln because of the road conditions.

The Safety Patrol issued warnings discouraging travel on any highways in the state.

The snowfall in Lincoln, with more coming down, totaled about one inch early Saturday morning. Precipitation was about one-half inch.

Blizzard-Trapped Tourney Visitors Find 'No Vacancy'

A driving blizzard and hundreds of out-staters attending the state basketball tourney created a "No Vacancy" situation in every motel and hotel in Lincoln.

Lincoln's motels and hotels reported a critical housing situation with hundreds of calls and persons stopping even where "No Vacancy" signs were plainly showing.

Many of the motels had been filled since Friday noon and even since the basketball tourney began.

The State Safety Patrol reported they had received more than 300 calls Friday night from persons checking on road conditions.

The patrol warned all motorists that "driving was not recommended" and expected hazardous conditions to continue.

Lincoln Police were busy untangling traffic tangles, investigating more than 20 accidents Friday and placing cinders and salt on especially dangerous intersections.

Dozens of stranded persons littered the hotel lobbies in Lincoln.

One unlucky couple, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Alexander of Omaha, sat through the night in the Lincoln hotel while their daughter slept comfortably in a reserved hotel room at the Cornhusker Hotel.

"We intended to go back tonight but the Highway Patrol turned us back," Mrs. Alexander said.

Five high school students from Lincoln were also feeling miserable in the lobby among the other stranded out-staters.

Fire Loss Is $175,000

SCOTTS BLUFF (P)—Snow-blocked roads brought two near-disasters in the Scottsbluff area.

A potato cellar fire, estimated at a $175,000 loss, raged while Minutaire volunteer firemen lost the battle of the drifts.

Earlier the Nebraska Safety Patrol and Highway Department rescued Henry Adams of Henry, who had suffered a shoulder injury after a fall from the roof of a house he was re-shingling.

The potato cellar, owned by Dale Redding and leased to the Nelson Jay Potato Co., was three miles east and one mile and a quarter north of Minutaire. Only a few men were able to reach the scene in an attempt to save the four trucks, machinery, potatoes, sacks and equipment.

Jay said he had not been able to reach the cellar to see the ruins, but he estimated loss of equipment at $74,000. Redding estimated loss of the cellar at $100,000. A railroad car parked on the siding next to the cellar was also destroyed.

Adams was rescued when Lt. Morgan Lambert of the Gering patrol station received a call informing him that the injured man was snowbound five miles north and one mile east of Henry.

Relatives met the Highway Department snowplow and Patrolman Dick Brandenburg after opening a mile and a half of country road west to the highway.

Elevator Shaft Fall Kills Lincolnite, 62

David Schumuck, 62, an employee of Gold and Company, was found dead, his head and chest crushed, Friday afternoon at the bottom of an elevator shaft in the store.

Dep. Sheriff Del Zieman, acting coroner, said the fatal accident apparently occurred sometime before the store's business hours, but that Schumuck's body was not found until about 3:30 p.m.

Schumuck, who was chief of the store's day maintenance crew, "apparently fell down the elevator shaft from an upper floor" sometime about 7 a.m., when he was last seen in the store, and prior to 9:30 a.m., when the store opened, Zieman said.

Store officials told Zieman that Schumuck, who traveled from floor to floor in the supervision of his crew, sometimes used a wire hook to open elevator doors and operate the elevators when regular operators were not yet on duty.

Zieman said Schumuck apparently opened the door of an elevator he thought was on the floor and walked into an empty shaft.

Schumuck's flashlight, with a huge dent, and the elevator hook he used were found beside his body at the bottom of the shaft. It was not determined immediately.

Demos Drive For Candidates, Funds

State-Wide Conference Heralds Strong Try For Election Victory

By B. R. ROTHENBERGER
Star Staff Writer

More than 300 grass roots Democratic leaders put new muscle into the Nebraska party here Friday—turning what started out as a substitute for a pre-primary convention into a dynamic drive for victory in the fall elections.

It was marked by:

(1) The opening of a strong drive for campaign funds with encouraging early response.

(2) Congressional district caucuses which cast up names of 29 party prospects in an effort to give Nebraska voters a strong total slate.

(3) A determined effort to draft James E. Lawrence, editor of The Lincoln Star and statewide leader of long standing and prominence for the state's open senatorship.

Lawrence, who was chairman of the party's advisory committee and with Stephen Mitchell, chairman of the Democratic National committee, when the spontaneous boom rolled up from the general meeting room answered the call with:

"I am a newspaperman."

His reply, nevertheless, did not quench the demand which party leaders predicted would "make victory much easier if he could be prevailed upon to accept."

Lawrence rejected candidacy a number of years ago under similar circumstances.

Attendance High

The statewide meeting drew by more than 100 the expected 200 attendance and late comers assured more than 385 for the evening dinner and the address of National Chairman Stephen Mitchell.

State Chairman William Meier, Minden, described it as "concrete evidence of party resurgence in Nebraska and a fine sign of good things to come."

"Attendance rivaled that of former pre-primary conventions which were compelling events carrying the responsibility of endorsing candidates," Meier said.

"This was a voluntary meeting designed originally as an early spring get-together with no statutory responsibilities. I think it is indicative of a new interest in state and national affairs in which the position of the Democratic party is very central," Meier said.

Sober Facts

But it was not all easy traveling. The party faced the sober facts of financial need—$7,181 shortage in its 1953 national assessment and the $10,000 bite for 1954. It likewise faced the need of what Chairman Meier estimated as a $50,000 pot needed to field a full slate of candidates.

James Green, Douglas County Central Committee chairman, asserted "The Republicans are supplying us with plenty of campaign ammunition and a disillusioned Nebraska citizenry is ready to give us a welcome hearing. But it is up to us to provide the good candidates. And we owe it to them to give the campaign support they should have."

Green keyed a monthly contribution campaign among rank and file party members of a type he said which in Douglas County had already put $4,000 into party coffers.

Joining a high tribute to Bernard Boyle, national committee man, for party faithfulness and generosity, he continued, "It is nevertheless time that we quit relying on the generosity of a few."

Boyle himself called for record attendance at the Jackson-Jefferson Day dinner—the party's $25 a plate event slated for Omaha May 15.

Senator Mike Monroney will be the principal speaker.

Congressional district caucuses contributed 29 possible candidates. But there were no acceptances Friday.

It was as Frank Sorell, Syracuse, put it:

"There will be plenty of good candidates. The time for filing does not end until July 1," he said.

'10 Per Cent'

Sorell who twice ran against former Governor Val Peterson and who reminded that "in overwhelming Republican years he only beat me by 10 per cent," withheld comment on his own plans.

The caucus list brought into consideration:

Senator—James E. Lawrence, Lincoln.

Governor—Frank Reed, Fairbury; Frank Sorell, Syracuse; William Ritchie, Omaha, who has already filed; Wm. O'Gara, Lincoln; former legislator and speaker of the Nebraska house, and James Green, Omaha.

At-Large—Clarence Strout, Omaha; Wm. Meier, Minden; and Clifford Anderson, Lincoln.

Secretary of State—V. E. Anderson, Omaha; Harry Swanson, Omaha; Decatur, Louis Maun, Lincoln and Paul Monhart, Omaha.

Attorney General—James Votava, Lincoln; Hale McCown, Beatrice and Wm. Grubbs, Scottsbluff who has already filed; Highway Commissioner—Francis Robinson, Ashland who has already filed.

State Treasurer—Carlton Anderson, Seward; Clarence Clark, Henry; LeRoy Wayne, Luther; Bonham, Fairbury.

Congressman, First Dist.—Frank Morrison.

McCook and Sam Freeman, Hubbell, both of whom have filed for congressmen, Fourth Dist.—James Hart who has already filed and Frank Sorell, Syracuse.

Congressman, Third Dist.—Walter Raacke, Central City; Ernest Luther, Hooper, and Jess Tenner, Creighton.

Congressman, Fourth Dist.—Al Duato, Clarkson; Francis Lee, Atkinson, and Hans Holter, Geneva.

The meeting received greeting from the Young Democrats who were meeting concurrently elsewhere and were told by Neal Smith, Des Moines, national Young Democrats president:

"The Republicans got too many young people last time. But we can get them now. They have had a chance to see the Republicans in action and know the party is not for them."

Democratic women were prominent at the meeting and in a special session of their own formed up plans for participation in the campaign. Mrs. George Truman, Omaha, state party vice chairman, presided.

Nebraska National Committee woman Mary Cunningham, Rulo, conducted well attended memorial services for William Jennings Bryan at the foot of his statue at the State Capitol.

Drawing inspiration from the record of The Commoner, she asserted, the Democratic party is the party with a heart and the people are returning to it after being misguided by false promises two years ago.

Frank Morrison, First district congressional candidate, drew his county chairmen together in a side session and said, "Carl (Curtis) used excellent judgment in withdrawing." But he added that as far as his candidacy was concerned, it "doesn't make much difference who the Republican is."

"There's a basic cleavage of issues," Morrison said. "Every day the average man on the street is being impressed that the Democratic party believes policies should come up from the grass roots."

As specific issues, Morrison listed taxes ("we must increase the income tax deduction"), and farm prices ("Benson advocates a reduction in farm prices... a wholly fallacious view... it won't reduce surpluses. The GOP candidate must stand for the 'collapsible' farm price plan.") fornia, said he thought both the Senate and the country would expect the McCarthy subcommittee to develop all the facts.

McCarthy held a news conference and cried "blackmail."

The Wisconsin senator said the Army's legal advisor, John G. Adams, has told him several months ago a report which would embarrass the subcommittee called off an investigation of the Army.

McCarthy, furthermore, dug into his files and gave reporters a batch of staff memos saying among other things that Adams had called Schine a "hostage" and that Stevens twice tried to get the subcommittee to halt its hunt for Communists in the Army and Air Force.

Adams followed up with a statement saying he would stand on the Army report and that the charge of blackmail is "fantastic and false." He said that "the charges made against me today are untrue."

One memo quoted Army Counsel Adams as saying that there was "plenty of dirt" in the Air Force, Navy and Defense Department and that the Army officials would furnish the McCarthy subcommittee with leads on the "dirt."

At the McCarthy news conference, Cohn sat pale and solemn beside the Wisconsin senator. He labeled the accusations in the Army report as "untrue," and "an unprecedented thing, obviously leaked out by the Army because they had failed in prior blackmail attempts."

Cohn said he never threatened to wreck Stevens or the Army and that "no improper influence was ever exerted by me or by anybody else to my knowledge on the Army in behalf of Mr. Schine."

High Court Grants Culpen's Hearing

The State Supreme Court held Friday that Glen Culpen, 33-year-old Penitentiary inmate, is entitled to hearing in Lancaster County District Court on his request for release on a writ of habeas corpus.

Culpen was sentenced from Lancaster County in 1950 to three years for escape and three years for auto theft. He contends that the District Court did not specify that they were to run consecutively, and that therefore they should have run concurrently, which would have permitted his discharge in 1953.

Culpen was sentenced originally to the Reformatory from Kimball County in 1945 for auto theft, and while there escaped, receiving a three-year sentence for that offense in 1947, according to prison records. His home was listed as Shelbyville, Mo.

"Our position is clear," he said. "We stand for peaceful economic competition of the Soviet Union with all capitalist countries, including of course the United States."

'A Hated Man'

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) declared here Friday night "I have a strong hunch that Roy Cohn will be in Washington quite some time."

McCarthy, who is scheduled to address a Junior Chamber of Commerce Bosses' Night dinner at Manitowoc Saturday night, described Cohn as "one of the most valuable and finest men who have ever worked for me."

He added "Roy is hated more than any man in the country with the possible exception of J. Edgar Hoover. Hoover is head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington."

Johnston May Seek County Attorney Post

Interest in the campaign for Lancaster county attorney was heightened by the statement from Attorney Miles Johnston that he is "seriously considering the matter at this time."

The 47-year-old attorney is associated in his law practice with Attorney William Grossman. Johnston has never sought any other political office.

Should Johnston file, he would be the second candidate on the Republican ticket. Incumbent Deputy County Attorney Elmer Scheele filed for the post following County Attorney Fritz Wagner's announcement that he would vacate the post in favor of the race for governor.

A Lincoln resident since 1923, Johnston is married and lives at 1734 Perkins. He has two sons.

Johnston is a graduate of the University of Nebraska law college and was admitted to the bar in 1937. He is president of the Lincoln-Lancaster Safety Council, on the executive board of the American Legion and a veteran of World War II and the Korean War.

McIntire A Candidate

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The personal physician to the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, retired Navy Vice Adm. Ross T. McIntire, whose home is in the San Diego bay community of Coronado, said he would seek the Democratic nomination for the California 30th House District, now represented by Rep. Bob Wilson, a Republican.

Troop Mass Reported

BEIRUT, Lebanon (INS)—Reports reaching Beirut said that Israeli troops are massing on the Lebanese and Syrian borders. No explanation was given for the reported troop concentration. Authoritative sources said the Lebanese government has protested to the United Nations over the occurrence and to have instructed its U.N. delegate to raise the matter in the Security Council.

FHA Loans Have Helped 760 State Farmers In The Past Eight Months

More than 760 Nebraska farmers have been helped by loans made through the Farmers Home Administration over the last eight months.

According to Ernest Frisch, FHA state director in Lincoln, the agency made 53 farm ownership or improvement loans, 68 water facility loans and four special livestock loans to Nebraska farmers in the same period.

The FHA, which cannot approve applications from farmers whose credit needs can be handled by private or co-operative lenders, has made loans during the eight-month period to 32 additional farm families in the Lincoln unit of the FHA.

Numbered among these 32 families are 10 veterans who received initial loans to start farming, and 18 families who required additional livestock, machinery or operating capital in order to diversify farming operations.

A complete sprinkler irrigation system in the Lincoln unit was made available to another family. The Lincoln unit of the FHA includes all of Butler, Lancaster, Saline, Saunders and Seward Counties.

Frisch declared that "farmers in all parts of Nebraska are returning to their local Farmers Home Administration county offices for credit that will help them take up better farm practices and make adjustments from cash crop farming to diversified systems."

High Court Hears Airline Argument

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court Friday heard two hours of argument on the question whether Nebraska may levy a personal property tax on airline companies which make stops in the state in doing an interstate business.

The court heard counsel for Braniff Airways argue that such a levy violates the constitutional provision that only Congress may regulate business activity crossing state lines.

Counsel for Nebraska responded with the contention that the state's levy did not violate the constitutional provision.

The high court took the case under advisement, without giving indication when its decision would be announced.

Braniff's main office is in Kansas City, Mo. The Nebraska tax is computed by a formula based on the ratio of business done by an airline in the state and the total business it does in all states. In 1950 the Braniff levy totaled $4,280 and in 1951, $4,518.

Good Land, Water Program Urged

CHICAGO (AP)—A newspaper editor said Friday "development of a sound lake and water use program is one of the most important jobs America faces on the domestic front."

Raymond A. McConnell Jr., editor of the Lincoln (Neb.) Journal, made the statement in an address at the annual convention of the National Wildlife Federation.

He also said there is a "need for some kind of federal-state-local-private co-ordinating body in the resources conservation field."

Mamie Doll Stolen

NEW YORK (INS)—New York authorities are searching for a doll representing Mamie Eisenhower in her inaugural gown which was stolen from a glass case at the National Antiques Show.

Actress Robbed

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—Actress Nancy Davis was robbed of $5 by a holdup man who confronted her when she parked her car in front of her Hollywood home. Miss Davis, whose real name is Nancy Garner, is a niece of Rear Adm. Arthur Radford.

Raining Mud

If a mole would have ventured above the earth's surface Friday noon in Lincoln, he probably would have found things about as "muddy" and dark as they are underground.

High-flying red dust, blown up from Oklahoma and southwestern Kansas, the Weather Bureau says, was deposited on the city when heavy moisture forced the dust down. The combination of dust, mist and clouds gave Lincoln a twilight appearance. (Star Drawing.)

Storm Brings Near Record Rescue Work

By the Associated Press

Highway patrolmen in Wyoming and Colorado worked through the night Friday attempting to rescue marooned motorists and equipment as snowstorms blocked highways and stranded hundreds of travelers in those states.

George N. Miles, Colorado Highway Department division engineer, said his agency was concentrating its efforts on trying to rescue persons from ditches alongside the highways. He described the rescue operation as "one of the biggest we've ever staged" and called the storm "the worst eastern Colorado has had in several years."

Rescue operations were stalled at several places when Highway Department trucks ran off the road because of poor visibility.

The Wyoming Highway Patrol gave a similar report for that state. It said more than 100 motorists were stranded in Pine Bluffs, near the Nebraska border, unable to travel in any direction. Nearly 100 Greyhound bus passengers were marooned in Cheyenne when four eastbound buses had to abandon their schedule.

Unappreciative

SEOUL (INS)—The South Korean National Assembly praised President Syngman Rhee and voted to buy him birthday presents, but in return received a sharp verbal lashing from the aged leader.

Rhee, who will be 79 March 26, accused the Assembly of "having achieved nothing during the past four years" and predicted every member would be defeated in the May 20 general election.

By ARTHUR EVERETT

NEW YORK (AP)—The team of Cohn and Schine was an anti-Communist act with an international reputation.

They got mixed reviews last spring when Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) booked them into Western Europe for 18 days to probe the U. S. Information Program. Mostly, they played one-night stands.

Once, by contrast to their present situation, they even brought the U. S. Army onstage to take a bow.

Roy M. Cohn, 27, is a former prodigy at Columbia University Law School. Dark complexioned, with dark hair, he is stocky and of medium height. A neat, conservative dresser, he has an air of aggressive nervousness. He is generally considered the brains of the team.

G. David Schine, 26, is a Harvard man. His wavy hair is light. He is a slender six feet or so. He also dresses tastefully. He is more placid than Cohn.

Criticized By Kagan

The team drew almost universal press last year as they flitted from city to city investigating the book shelves in American government libraries. They claimed to have found books aplenty by authors whom they suspected of Communism.

Theodore Kagan, then a State Department official in Germany, called them "junketeering gunshoes." He said they were wasting the American taxpayers' money. Kagan later resigned after the team accused him of once authoring pro-Communist plays.

Two American congressmen—both Pennsylvania Republicans—also had some harsh things to say about the act.

"They should be recalled," said Rep. James G. Fulton. "They are doing more harm than good. The reaction we found was definitely antagonistic."

Fulton and Rep. Robert J. Corbett crossed the trail of Cohn and Schine while the congressmen were on a separate European investigation of their own into other matters.

"They seem to take the attitude that people are guilty until proved innocent," complained Corbett.

Democrats Remember The Commoner

Their numbers depleted by raw wind and snow, a loyal score or more Democrats gathered at the statue of William Jennings Bryan at the Capitol to lay a wreath to the memory of the Great Commoner. The wreath was officially put in place by Stephen Mitchell, (left), chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and William Meier, state chairman from Minden and Mary Cunningham of Rulo, national

State Democrats Can Elect Congressmen—Neal Smith

Nebraska Democrats have a very good chance of electing several congressional members but there must first be a well organized group to take advantage of that opportunity.

Thus did Neil Smith, national president of the Young Democrats, urge Nebraska Young Democrats to organize for campaigning purposes during the coming general elections.

"I am very much enthused," said Smith, "over the enthusiasm shown by the Young Democrats in Nebraska. One good reason for this enthusiasm, of course, is the fact that the Republicans are doing all they can to help us."

An Example

The Republican party, asserted Smith, is not working for the good of all people. As an example, he cited the Republican's proposal to cut dividend taxes while the Democrats propose to increase income tax exemptions to the benefit of everyone.

"Once again," he said, "it is the old question of the Republican policy of the wealth of a few trickling down to everyone against the Democratic policy of a broad and equal tax base."

The Republicans, he said, asserted there must be more machinery to prevent a slump.

"The trouble is," he asserted, "we are already in a slump. What we need is not more machinery but to use the machinery we now have."

Caravans

Don Knutzen, state Young Democratic chairman, reported that the group will form caravans to work throughout the state even before the primaries. Of course, he said, there will be no endorsement of candidates before the primary, but each county will be organized so it can swing into full action in support of candidates for the general election.

Another important step taken by the Young Democrats, said Knutzen, is formation of a farm council. This council, he said, will be composed of one representative from each of Nebraska's four congressional districts.

Rehabilitation 'Challenged To Medicine, State, Community'

Rehabilitation is a challenge to the community—and a challenge which Nebraska has yet to meet completely.

Panel discussion members at the University of Nebraska's sixth annual College Health Day considered the question of rehabilitating the physically and emotionally handicapped to the point where they can gain "independence from the relief rolls."

Moderator was Dr. Howard A. Rusk, director of the Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation of the New York University-Bellevue Hospital Medical Center and associate editor of the New York Times.

Other members of the panel included Dr. J. E. M. Thomson, Lincoln orthopedic specialist; Dr. I. William Brill, chief of the University health services mental health division; Dr. Dean A. Worcester, University professor and chairman of the educational psychology and measurements department; and Paul M. Reid, state supervisor of the department of vocational rehabilitation. Dr. Rusk and Reid pointed out the need for a rehabilitation center in the state for the treatment of physically handicapped. This center would augment existing facilities.

Such a center could be built in connection with a general hospital, Dr. Rusk said, thereby cutting the costs of operation.

In addition to rehabilitation centers, the New York rehabilitation expert also pointed to the need for "sheltered colonies" for the severely handicapped who never can be rehabilitated to the point where they can lead independent lives.

Dr. Thomson discussed the medical aspects of the handicapped; Dr. Worcester, the educational problem and how teachers and educators can meet it; and Dr. Brill, the mental problems of the physically handicapped.

First Moot Court Winners Named

The team of appellees, consisting of Asher Geisler of Decatur, Ill., and Claire Johnson of Tilden, were awarded the winning decision in the first of the sophomore rounds in the Allen Moot Court competition of the University of Nebraska.

They won the decision by a two to one vote of judges over the appellant team of Bernard Packett of Lincoln and Eugene Wohlner of Omaha.

The other sophomore team competition, scheduled for this week, has been postponed. Friday night judges were Charles Thone, Robert McNutt and Dean Kratz.

State Draft Quota For May Is 130

A draft call for 18,000 men during May, all for the Army, has been requested by the Defense Department.

Nebraska's share has been about 130 of the 18,000 who have been called each month since January.

The state quotas have been filled almost entirely by volunteers so far this year.

The Defense Department has said a step-up in draft calls for six months beginning in July will be necessary because a large number of service terms are ending this year.

Quotas during the last six months of 1953 were 23,000 men monthly.

The May call will bring to 1,661,430 the number of men drafted since the start of the Korean War in June, 1950.

This Problem Of Pollution

Nebraska's cities and towns located on the banks of the Big Blue River and on the Missouri are seriously concerned with the problem of stream pollution.

The problem on the Blue has become particularly acute because of the complaint by the Kansas State Board of Health that Marysville is having difficulty in getting good drinking water, due to pollution.

There is no easy way out. The problem at Beatrice is a fine example. That thriving, bustling, hustling community with a population of over 12,000 people is located on both banks of the Big Blue, with the stream cutting its course through the city itself. There are eight different sewage outlets emptying into the Big Blue—five on one side of the river and three on the other. Now it is no simple nor is it an inexpensive problem to step in at this late date in correcting a long-standing situation. It has been estimated that it would cost the people of Beatrice between $400,000 and $600,000 to revamp their sewer system and to provide a disposal plant.

That is a lot of money these days.

The problems along the Missouri are no less serious.

City planning is in itself a development of comparatively recent vintage. Even more recent is the program involving sanitation and the protection of health. The older the community, frequently it seems, the greater the job to be done.

In no instance is it a matter of lack of co-operativeness. Actually the only question involved is one of money.

Wait And See

The proof of the pudding, they say, is in the eating.

Most American taxpayers, especially those in the low income bracket or in moderate circumstances, will wait with their tongues in cheek while fiery old Dan Reed, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, triumphantly proclaims that the bulky revision of the federal tax laws which shortly is scheduled to become a center of stormy congressional debate represents the most thorough-going revision undertaken in more than 40 years.

The original conception of the federal income tax scarcely offers an echo in talk today. The graduated income tax was based upon the ability of the individual to pay. Now tax revision comes before the people, not on the basis of ability to pay but on the issue of what will stimulate business, provide more jobs, and ward off the lengthening shadows of unemployment.

There are two sharply conflicting views on this and each can be argued with skill and sincerity. The "rich man approach" is that jobs and payrolls spelling prosperity stem from drafting tax laws which furnish an incentive to investment, and to industrial expansion. Hence the liberal approach to dividends and the generous write-offs for new physical facilities for industry. It starts from the top and drips down to those underneath, they say.

The opposite approach is that consumer purchasing power must be increased by relieving the worker and the wage earner, the white collar man or the salaried man and his family. It is this approach that creates the demand for goods when warehouses are filled to overflowing and surplus stocks pile up.

We do not expect that the judges will reach a unanimous verdict.

Beneficial Hoax

The University of New Hampshire fired a professor of higher physics recently under most unusual circumstances. It was admitted he was a competent teacher, sound in his subject. But his formal education had not gone past high school and he was teaching under the name of another man—one of acceptable educational background who happened at the moment to be obscurely engaged in research in another part of the country.

The unmasked professor readily admitted his lack of degrees. He explained his borrowing of another man's name and qualifications by an inner sense of compulsion to teach. He justified his act by pointing to his capabilities, self-taught and his success in imparting a mastery of the subject to his students.

It seems that all he said was true though highly irregular, and it is hard to assess blame on anyone. His action neither impeached the school's set of standards for qualifying an instructor, nor did it do a wrong to the students. It will just have to be put on the records as an exception. The professor will have to content himself with the realization that even Plato, who never had the right educational degrees, could not hold a chair in today's colleges nor be permitted to teach. And the school can content itself with the comforting thought that it was victim of a hoax in which no one got hurt.

Editorial Of The Day

The Calm View

From The Des Moines Register

John H. Davis, assistant U. S. secretary of agriculture, evidently views the price support programs of recent years with a good deal less alarm than his chief, Ezra Taft Benson. Speaking at the National Farm Institute, he said these programs had helped to maintain prosperity and had been worth their cost to the nation as a whole.

Davis granted that the programs have not been perfect, in fact have grave weaknesses. But he said they should be gradually improved rather than discarded or fundamentally altered.

What Davis did not say was significant as what he did say. He did not say that price supports should be drastically lowered. Nor did he indicate by any remark that he thought such programs were wrong in principle or not justified in a modern industrial economy.

Davis sees the present "surpluses" as valuable reserves which may be used to further our political aims in the world—and which may be useful in case of severe drought in the next few years.

He even suggested that "for a few years we may have to accumulate larger holdings of commodity stocks than we want to as a means of managing our surpluses while demand is catching up with supply."

In short, Davis gave a calm and moderate analysis of the present farm programs. He did not predict disaster if they were maintained about as they are, and he counseled building on the programs as they are, rather than a completely fresh start.

Mr. Davis is leaving the Department of Agriculture soon to head a new department of agricultural relations at Harvard University. We are sorry to see him leave the federal government. His is the kind of balance which is needed in high, policy-forming positions.

McCloy A Target Of McCarthy Offensive

WASHINGTON—If you trace the attacks of Sen. McCarthy against most of the major targets he has aimed at, you will invariably detect an underlying motive of revenge—a motive reminiscent of totalitarian tactics in Europe before the war.

McCarthy attacked Senators Tydings of Maryland and Benton of Connecticut because one questioned his charge of 205 Communists in the State Department; the other introduced a resolution asking for a probe of McCarthy.

McCarthy now seeks to defeat Sen. Margaret Chase Smith in Maine because she initiated the declaration of conscience which reflected on him. And of course the running feud with Secretary of State Acheson came after Stevens refused to admit that Fort Monmouth was riddled with Communists.

But the most brazen recent case of McCarthy's vindictiveness was against the former assistant secretary of war, John J. McCloy, now head of the Chase Bank, which is not exactly a Communist institution.

McCloy has been out of government for some years after a distinguished career not only in the War Department but as head of the World Bank and as high commissioner to Germany. Nevertheless, out of the clear blue, the senator from Wisconsin suddenly accused McCloy of being a Communist. He sent two investigators to Germany to dig into McCloy's records as high commissioner. There they even probed the records of the car pool to see how many times Mrs. McCloy used her official limousine to buy groceries.

But nothing damaging turned up.

Stymied, McCarthy then launched his accusation against McCloy for allegedly destroying records on Communists inside the War Department. And when this boomeranged as untrue, the persistent and revengeful Senator from Wisconsin claimed that McCloy had arranged for commissions to be given to American Communists during the war.

Actually, McCloy had argued inside the War Department that Japanese-Americans, German-Americans, members of the Fascist silver shirts and American Communists all should be allowed to fight for their country if they were found to be loyal, and that the test should be membership in one of these groups or organizations but individual loyalty to the U.S.A. He argued first that it was unfair to other Americans to let these men off from combat duty; second, that if they showed unquestioned loyalty to their country they should have the same chance in the Army as anyone else.

As a result it was finally decided to send Japanese-American troops to the European theatre where they would not be called upon to fight against a Japanese enemy; and to send German-Americans and Communist veterans of the Spanish Civil War to the Pacific where they would not fight against Europeans. The decision resulted in some of the finest citations for heroism given to some of these men, including the American-Japanese 442nd "Go-for-broke" regiment.

The decision, incidentally, was not McCloy's alone, but was secreted by War, Henry L. Stimson, by the general staff and son, a distinguished patriot who also served as secretary of war in the cabinet of Herbert Hoover. (Copyright 1954 by Bell Syndicate)

"And the value of those books was that they were uncensored. They criticized you and me, and Dean Acheson and anyone else in government. The Germans knew they were uncensored and that was why they streamed into our libraries leaving the houses of culture empty.

"These were books sent to American boys right after the war. Books which their parents and friends wanted them to read. There was nothing subversive about these books."

President Eisenhower listened intently. Then obviously moved he delivered impromptu the stirring Dartmouth speech on book-burning. It electrified the nation and was hailed by the American press as Ike's first crack-down on McCarthy.

McCloy was so furious that next day he pulled wires at the White House to keep the speech from being broadcast over the Voice of America and also persuaded the President to issue a statement that the speech was meant as no reflection on him.

Nevertheless he deeply resented it. And when word came back from his investigator in Dartmouth regarding the happenstance by which McCloy had inspired the speech, McCarthy actually went to the unusual length of investigating everything McCloy did. He sent two investigators to Germany to dig into McCloy's records as high commissioner. There they even probed the records of the car pool to see how many times Mrs. McCloy used her official limousine to buy groceries.

But nothing damaging turned up.

ARCH DONOVAN

In Step With The Sower

While the names of practically all Republicans in the First District were being suggested as candidates to succeed Rep. Carl Curtis, one Lincoln lawyer was found who knew he did not want to become a candidate.

John J. Wilson, assistant revisor of statutes and bill drafter for the Legislature, casually remarked to a group of friends at the Arch Donovan lunch table that he thought he would enter the race if someone would pay his filing fee.

Six billfolds flew open and six owners each offered to contribute the fee. Wilson departed from the table with a definite statement that he was not interested in becoming a candidate.

As the sextet so enjoyed seeing Wilson squirm and back out of his previous position, maybe they should start a petition movement and "draft" him for the race.

The Sower offhand would have said that among the greatest gamblers he had ever seen were the farmers who during the drought years continued to plant grain when their tractors were obscured by the clouds of dust they stirred up.

But with careful consideration, we believe the little goes to women who gamble—not mere dollars but their future happiness—on their faith in men.

Monthly we have observed wives, mothers, sisters and sweethearts firmly clinging to their menfolk and urging the state pardon board to give them another chance. They express faith that they can keep them in the path laid out by society for individual conduct.

At a recent board meeting, a wife who had been with her husband only five months in the last seven years joined in her husband's plea for clemency and their sincerity led to the board's taking a chance and giving them a chance to start life together in California.

Their marriage occurred in California while the man was on the "lam" after having escaped from the Nebraska prison. He had established himself in business on the coast and was prospering being "legit." The wife knew nothing of his prison record when they were married. It was not until five months later that he revealed his complete past. The bride insisted that he give himself up to California authorities and clear his record even though it also meant returning to Nebraska and serving the term from which he escaped.

The man explained to the board that his childhood was spent in foster homes for orphans and "nobody was interested in me."

"I never had an unselfish thought nor did an unselfish thing until after I was married," he said. He explained that his wife taught him to consider others. Fellow inmates and prison officials verify this, stating that he was a thoughtful, kindly man on his return to the state's prison.

Prisoners who have been released and made good even wrote the board pleas in his behalf.

The wife, with a well-paying profession, moved close to the California prison so that on visitors' day she could visit with him and keep lending encouragement. When he completed the six-year term, she followed him to Nebraska.

Questioned as to her faith and failure to take advantage of the easier way through divorce and just call the marriage a failure, she responded simply, "I know him better than anyone else. I know he will make good if he has something to work for."

"While there is life there is hope," she explained rather than the familiar Salvation Army version, "A man may be down, but he's never out."

Thus, through action of the board and a good woman's faith, a man who spent most of the first half of his life in federal and state prisons will be given a chance to make up in the last half for the failures of the first. They departed immediately, anxious to start a new life in the state of the setting sun.

Stories Of Famous Hymns

Brighten The Corner Where You Are
Do not wait until some deed of greatness you may do.
Do not wait to shed your light afar.
To the many duties ever near you now be true,
Brighten the corner where you are.

Just above are clouded skies that you may help to clear,
Let not narrow self your way debar,
Tho' into one heart alone may fall your song of cheer,
Brighten the corner where you are.

Here for all your talent you may surely find a need,
Here reflect the Bright and Morning Star.
Even from your humble hand the bread of life may feed,
Brighten the corner where you are.

By HORACE E. POWELL

Back in the early years of the present century, when the soul-winning sermons of the famed evangelist, Billy Sunday, were sweeping America, a gospel song came along which was destined to brighten and bless revivals everywhere for many years to come.

The new song, "Brighten The Corner Where You Are," was written by Mrs. Ina Dudley Ogdon. It received its song-wings from Charles H. Gabriel to whom Christians are indebted for other precious hymn-tunes including those which he created for "The Way of The Cross Leads Home," "That Will Be Glory For Me," "Since Jesus Came Into My Heart," and "He Lifted Me."

When it was introduced at a revival service conducted by Mr. Sunday, it became immediately popular. Soon it was being widely used in other gospel meetings.

Mrs. Ogdon was born in Illinois. She planned at one time to give her life to missionary endeavor. Instead, she became a teacher and then turned to verse writing. "Brighten The Corner Where You Are" was written to cheer her father during a long and depressing illness. Who can begin to count the men and women who have been similarly "lifted" by this little song through the years?

Mrs. Ogdon wrote other evangelistic hymn-poems including the favorites, "When You Know Jesus, Too" and "Carry Your Cross With a Smile."

Cause And Effect

Hayes Center, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The black dust clouds of the past few weeks have been an indication there might be trouble during the coming season for the farmer as well as those who have been working on soil conservation. That dust is the effect of some condition that is not as it should be. What is the cause?

When doctors run up against an ailment they do not know, they start a search to find out the cause of that ailment. Any information, regardless of whom or where it comes from, is analyzed. Conservation specialists could follow the same pattern, if they would, and maybe find the cause of the dust storms of the past few years that have done millions of dollars of damage to the soil of the nation.

Has oil anything to do with these storms? They tell us that oil does not wear out; also that a gallon of oil will put a film over 160 acres of water. Where does all the oil go that is consumed daily by cars, tractors, airplanes and other motors? Doesn't a large part go into the air through the fumes from exhaust? Then where does it settle? If our agricultural specialists would study the oil situation rather than sticking their heads under six or eight inches of soil, we might have a solution to the cause of these dust storms.

I have caught this dust and when a small quantity was placed in a pan of clear water, there would soon be oil scum on the water. And I have had ranchers tell me that oil scums have been noticed on water tanks following a dust storm. What was the cause of that condition? Where did the dust storms originate in the 'thirties? Southeast Colorado? They were northwest of the oil fields of Oklahoma and Texas and we find that the air currents in that territory come from the gulf or the southeast and pass over the oil fields where millions of cubic yards of oil-laden gas have been shot into the air. Where did that oil settle?

Later years dust storms developed in the Bakersfield territory of California. Now we have new oil fields in eastern Wyoming, western Nebraska, the Dakotas and eastern Colorado, and these territories are also suffering from storms that compare to those of the 'thirties.

Someone may ask why I am taking a stand on finding the causes of dust storms. Well, in the 'thirties they put me in the hospital and I am still feeling the effect of that condition.

We all know that when there is any oil in the soil, water will not settle it and that it will rise in a very moderate wind. If the top 1/64 of an inch of topsoil is impregnated with oil, what is going to happen to that soil? The topsoil is the life of our land and when it is blown or washed away, that soil has lost the better part of its crop-producing soil. Also, oil impregnated by oil will rise in water and be washed away, thus adding to soil erosion.

If soil specialists would stop being ostriches and get down to brass tacks, studying every angle of the question, they might learn something that would benefit the whole country and help to save the valuable topsoil which is necessary to produce the crops that are needed to feed the world.

High Temperature

One of the worst features of civilization is that somebody is always inventing something to tell people when they ought to be uncomfortable.

Consider the thermometer. In bygone ages, before sadistic science squeezed mercury into a little glass tube to torment the human race, there were only three main divisions into which normally clear days fell—hot, cold and nice. If icicles formed on a man's beard, or the soles of his feet began smoking, he simply added a strong adjective before the proper description of the day, and that was that.

Then came the thermometer. In itself, as a small instrument easily disposed of in an ash can or dropped down an old well casing, it was not so bad. It even offered a sort of relief from tension, in that you could jump up and down upon it. But civilization was not content to rest there. It had new torments in store.

One of them has been erected in the direct line of vision from my office window. It is an electrical sign controlled, I suppose, by a small thermometer. Minute by minute, throughout the day and night, it announces the current temperature. It has been there now for several months, which is the principal reason for my pallid complexion, shattered nerves and unstable mentality in recent weeks.

No matter what my task at any given moment, the temperature is looking over my shoulder, breathing down my back, telling me in what a fool's paradise I have been living.

Does it seem like a nice day, clear and crisp and cool? The kind of a day that puts spring in your step and ambition in your heart? Hah! The sign out there takes no account of the sparkling sunshine, the fleecy clouds, the rustling leaves. It's a bleak, bare, scientific 42, or maybe 38 or 53, and all the argument in the world isn't going to change it. You're wrong, pal, about it being a nice day, and you might as well start shivering.

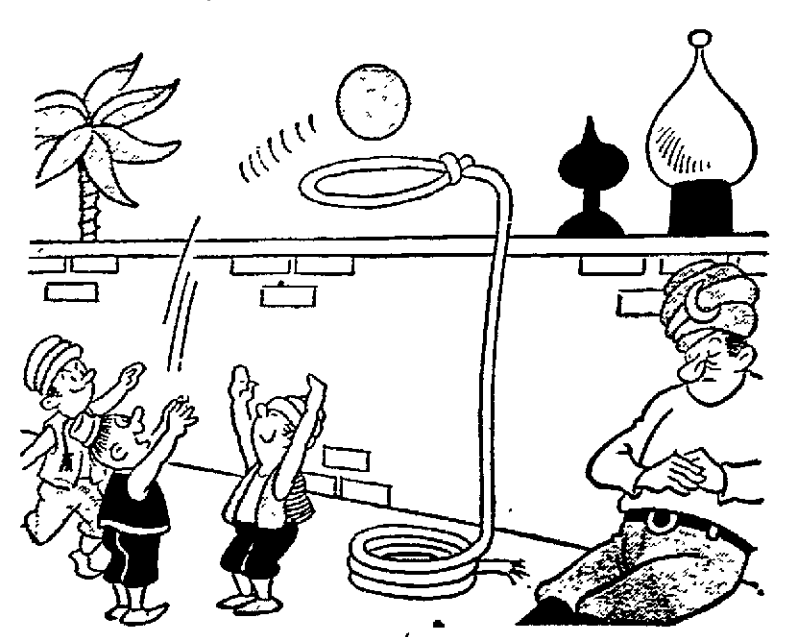

There are undoubtedly men and women of sterling character, the giants of the race, who can blithely disregard a temperature reading which is forever peering over their shoulders, but I am not among them. If it's below freezing out there, for instance, it's cold, and when it is that cold, a man needs to bundle up in overcoats and scarves and blankets! I've sweated off more pounds that way! There will come a day, inevitably, when the thermometer regulating that electrical sign goes wrong, or the glowing bulbs are shattered, and if on that day they find me in my office window, with a rifle in my hands and a fiendish cunning on my face, they can carry me away without protest. LINCOLN, NEB.

Wonderful Youth

Lincoln has been invaded by youth. This has been a heavy week for the hundreds of state high school basketball teams and their devoted, partisan rooters. For them the world has narrowed its focus into a brilliant beam which played on the precincts of the state tournament. The hero is on the march. The spirit of competition is giving an excellent exhibition of itself. Loyalty is shining with a pure and intense light. Youth is showing the way. Age, faded and slow-handed, is watching with admiration and haunting memories.

This Problem Of Pollution

Nebraska's cities and towns located on the banks of the Big Blue River and on the Missouri are seriously concerned with the problem of stream pollution.

The problem on the Blue has become particularly acute because of the complaint by the Kansas State Board of Health that Marysville is having difficulty in getting good drinking water, due to pollution.

There is no easy way out. The problem at Beatrice is a fine example. That thriving, bustling, hustling community with a population of over 12,000 people is located on both banks of the Big Blue, with the stream cutting its course through the city itself. There are eight different sewage outlets emptying into the Big Blue—five on one side of the river and three on the other. Now it is no simple nor is it an inexpensive problem to step in at this late date in correcting a long-standing situation. It has been estimated that it would cost the people of Beatrice between $400,000 and $600,000 to revamp their sewer system and to provide a desposal plant.

That is a lot of money these days.

The problems along the Missouri are no less serious.

City planning is in itself a development of comparatively recent vintage. Even more recent is the program involving sanitation and the protection of health. The older the community, frequently it seems, the greater the job to be done.

In no instance is it a matter of lack of co-operativeness. Actually the only question involved is one of money.

Wait And See

The proof of the puddin', they say, is in the eating.

Most American taxpayers, especially those in the low income bracket or in moderate circumstances, will wait with their tongues in cheek while fiery old Dan Reed, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, triumphantly proclaims that the bulky revision of the federal tax laws which shortly is scheduled to become a center of stormy congressional debate represents the most thorough-going revision undertaken in more than 40 years.

The original conception of the federal income tax scarcely offers an echo in talk today. The graduated income tax was based upon the ability of the individual to pay. Now tax revision comes before the people, not on the basis of ability to pay but on the issue of what will stimulate business, provide more jobs, and ward off the lengthening shadows of unemployment.

There are two sharply conflicting views on this and each can be argued with skill and sincerity. The "rich man approach" is that jobs and payrolls spelling prosperity stem

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

There is a new framed portrait hanging on the wall of the office. It is the picture of a man born and reared in Lincoln, a talented member of the staff of the New York Times, William H. Lawrence, for many years assigned to cover the White House by the Times, sent abroad to cover Moscow for three years, dispatched to the Far Pacific in the closing phases of the Pacific war, and a roving political correspondent.

The portrait, an unusually good shot of "Bill," bareheaded, surprisingly grim-faced, shows him standing on the steps with the Senate office building in the background. Bill Lawrence started newspapering on this paper. He took to journalism with greater facility than a duck takes to water.

Standing On The Steps

He is an ace reporter and political writer now and he is one of our favorite people. He has been far and wide in the world since he left Lincoln. Perhaps he will not appreciate this, but Bill Lawrence once took over a former secretary of state's airplane to visit a point in Russia to which the Russian bureau of information had coldly, unsmilingly denied him access. He might smile when he recalls a bitterly cold snowy night and a 75-mile-an-hour ride from a mountain retreat in a certain section of the stormy Balkans. And we are quite sure he would laugh if we were to mention that he kept us waiting at an airport for more than an hour one afternoon while he and former Gov. Harold Stassen took time out to argue what happened in Oregon.

Bill was here and at our house a few months ago after delivering a lecture at Denver University. When he finished he said that a man and his wife came to him to inquire if he was any relative of the editor of the Lincoln Star. He is not a relative but he is "our boy" and a swell newspaper man at that. The Times is paying its respects in a series dealing with distinguished members of its staff. In the note accompanying the picture Bill had this sentence: "I was not shot at yesterday—being busy in the Senate."

There may be a lot of Nebraskans active with the Eisenhower administration but there are also a lot of outstanding Nebraskans in the Washington writing corps. Out at Grand Island Thursday night we had the pleasure of addressing a fine group of Hall County people, with a sprinkling from the outside. Before the dinner it was our pleasure to greet Judge and Mrs. Scott of neighboring Greeley, Neb., the parents of a former member of this staff now associated with Bob Allen in Washington. Paul Scott is doing a great job of reporting in the national capital, a fine lad with boundless energy and initiative. And out at Grand Island we bumped into Arch Jarrell and a lot of other friends.

We told those people, and we believe it with all our heart, that the next 50 years will present Nebraska's finest story of progress. It may take a hundred years for a state to advance from territorial status to maturity, but the next 50 years can and will be the best. There has been more real development in Nebraska in the last 30 years than in all the rest of the period of statehood.

McCloy A Target Of McCarthy Offensive

WASHINGTON—If you trace the attacks of Sen. McCarthy against most of the major targets he has aimed at, you will invariably detect an underlying motive of revenge—a motive reminiscent of totalitarian tactics in Europe before the war.

McCarthy attacked Senators Tydings of Maryland and Benton of Connecticut because one questioned his charge of 205 Communists in the State Department; the other introduced a resolution asking for a probe of McCarthy. McCarthy now seeks to defeat Sen. Margaret Chase Smith in Maine because she initiated the declaration of conscience which reflected on him. And of course the running feud with Secretary of the Army Stevens came after Stevens refused to admit that Fort Monmouth was riddled with Communists.

But the most brazen recent case of McCarthy's vindictiveness was against the former assistant secretary of war, John J. McCloy, now head of the Chase Bank, which is not exactly a Communist institution.

McCloy has been out of government for some years after a distinguished career not only in the War Department but as head of the World Bank and as high commissioner to Germany. Nevertheless, out of the clear blue, the senator from Wisconsin suddenly accused McCloy of destroying records of Communists in the U.S. Army.

The charge was so untrue that McCarthy had to retract it publicly. But he still accused McCloy of writing a wartime Army order, which, McCarthy claimed, permitted Communists to be commissioned in the U.S. Army.

But while the public has read of McCarthy's attack on McCloy, they don't know the motives behind that attack. It dates back to a famous speech made by President Eisenhower at Dartmouth last spring in which the President condemned book-burning. McCarthy bitterly resented that speech—obviously aimed at him.

And since the speech was extemporaneous, McCarthy was determined to find out who had inspired it, even sent an investigator all the way to Hanover, N.H., to see who and what the inspiration was.

The inspiration, he found, was Mr. McCloy.

Actually, the inspiration was accidental. Here is what happened: McCloy, too, was receiving an honorary degree from Dartmouth, and before the ceremonies, was talking to N.Y. Attorney Joseph Proskauer about the books that had been burned at U.S. information libraries abroad at the demand of Sen. McCarthy.

Catching only a fragment of the conversation, President Eisenhower leaned forward and asked: "What's this, what's this?"

I was telling about the burning of State Department libraries abroad," McCloy replied.

"Oh, they're not burning books," Ike interposed.

"I'm afraid they are, Mr. President," McCloy replied. "I have the evidence."

He then went on to tell the President how he, as an American official in Germany knew firsthand the tremendous achievement of State Department libraries.

"Eighteen million Germans read those books in 1952 alone," McCloy explained. "Probably as many Germans studied the principles of our founding fathers as did Americans, thanks to those books."

Davis granted that the programs have not been perfect, in fact have grave weaknesses. But he said they should be gradually improved rather than discarded or fundamentally altered.

Editorial Of The Day

The Calm View

From The Des Moines Register.

John H. Davis, assistant U. S. secretary of agriculture, evidently views the price support programs of recent years with a good deal less alarm than his chief, Ezra Taft Benson. Speaking at the National Farm Institute, he said these programs had helped to maintain prosperity and had been worth their cost to the nation as a whole.

Davis granted that the programs have not been perfect, in fact have grave weaknesses. But he said they should be gradually improved rather than discarded or fundamentally altered.

What Davis did not say was as significant as what he did say. He did not say that price supports should be drastically lowered. Nor did he indicate by any remark that he thought such programs were wrong in principle or not justified in a modern industrial economy.

Davis sees the present "surpluses" as valuable reserves which may be used to further our political aims in the world—and which may be useful in case of severe drought in the next few years.

He even suggested that "for a few years we may have to accumulate larger holdings of commodity stocks than we want to as a means of managing our surpluses while demand is catching up with supply."

In short, Davis gave a calm and moderate analysis of the present farm programs. He did not predict disaster if they were maintained about as they are, and he counseled building on the programs as they are, rather than a completely fresh start.

Mr. Davis is leaving the Department of Agriculture soon to head a new department of agricultural relations at Harvard University. We are sorry to see him leave the federal government. His is the kind of balance which is needed in high, policy-forming positions.

Stories Of Famous Hymns

Brighten The Corner Where You Are

Do not wait until some deed of greatness you may do.

Do not wait to shed your light afar.
To the many duties ever near you now be true,
Brighten the corner where you are.

Just above are clouded skies that you may help to clear.

Let not narrow self your way debar,
Tho' into one heart alone may fall your song of cheer,
Brighten the corner where you are.

Here for all your talent you may surely find a need.

Here reflect the Bright and Morning Star,
Even from your humble hand the bread of life may feed,
Brighten the corner where you are.

By HORACE B. POWELL

Back in the early years of the present century, when the soul-winning sermons of the famed evangelist, Billy Sunday, were sweeping America, a gospel song came along which was destined to brighten and bless revivals everywhere for many years to come.

The new song, "Brighten The Corner Where You Are," was written by Mrs. Ina Dudley Ogden. It received its song-wings from Charles H. Gabriel to whom Christians are indebted for other precious hymn-tunes including those which he created for "The Way of The Cross Leads Home," "That Will Be Glory For Me," "Since Jesus Came Into My Heart," and "He lifted Me."

When it was introduced at a revival service conducted by Mr. Sunday, it became immediately popular. Soon it was being widely used in other gospel meetings.

Mrs. Ogden was born in Illinois. She planned at one time to give her life to missionary endeavor. Instead, she became a teacher and then turned to verse writing. "Brighten The Corner Where You Are" was written to cheer her father during a long and depressing illness. Who can begin to count the men and women who have been similarly "lifted" by this little song through the years?

Mrs. Ogden wrote other evangelistic hymns including the favorites, "When You Know Jesus, Too" and "Carry Your Cross With a Smile."

Cause And Effect

Hayes Center, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The black dust clouds of the past few weeks have been an indication there might be trouble during the coming season for the farmer as well as those who have been working on soil conservation. That dust is the effect of some condition that is not as it should be. What is the cause?

When doctors run up against an ailment they do not know, they start a search to find out the cause of that ailment. Any information, regardless of whom or where it comes from, is analyzed. Conservation specialists could follow the same pattern, if they would, and maybe find the cause of the dust storms of the past

One of the worst features of civilization is that somebody is always inventing something to tell people when they ought to be uncomfortable.

Consider the thermometer. In bygone ages, before sadistic science squeezed mercury into a little glass tube to torment the human race, there were only three main divisions into which normally clear days fell—hot, cold and nice. If icicles formed on a man's beard, or the soles of his feet began smoking, he simply added a strong adjective before the proper description of the day, and that was that.

Then came the thermometer. In itself, as a small instrument easily disposed of in an ash can or dropped down an old well casing, it was not so bad. It even offered a sort of relief from tension, in that you could jump up and down upon it. But civilization was not content to rest there. It had new torments in store.

One of them has been erected in the direct line of vision from my office window. It is an electrical sign controlled, I suppose, by a small thermometer. Minute by minute, throughout the day and night, it announces the current temperature. It has been there now for several months, which is the principal reason for my pallid complexion, shattered nerves and unstable mentality in recent weeks.

No matter what my task at any given moment, the temperature is looking over my shoulder, breathing down my back, telling me in what a fool's paradise I have been living.

Does it seem like a nice day, clear and crisp and cool? The kind of a day that puts spring in your step and ambition in your heart? Hah! The sign out there takes no account of the sparkling sunshine, the fleecy clouds, the rustling leaves. It's a bleak, bare, scientific 42, or maybe 38 or 53, and all the argument in the world isn't going to change it. You're wrong, pal, about it being a nice day, and you might as well start shivering!

There are undoubtedly men and women of sterling character, the giants of the race, who can blithely disregard a temperature reading which is forever peering over their shoulders, but I am not among them. If it's below freezing out there, for instance, it's cold, and when it is that cold, a man needs to bundle up in overcoats and scarves and blankets! I've sweated off more pounds that way! The steam radiator is too close.

There will come a day, inevitably, when the thermometer regulating that electrical sign goes wrong, or the glowing bulbs are shattered, and if on that day they find me in my office window, with a rifle in my hands and a fiendish cunning on my face, they can carry me away without protest. I'll be happy, just not knowing how cold it is, or how hot.

Fairbury Man Killed By Freight Train

Lincoln Star Special
FAIRBURY, Neb. — A 79-year-old longtime Fairbury resident, Fred McChesney, was instantly killed near here Friday morning by a Union Pacific local freight train.
Mr. McChesney, who was walking across the tracks on the Bernard Throckmorton farm to look at some farm land, apparently didn't see or hear the approaching train, officials said. He was hard of hearing and was not wearing his hearing aid at the time of the accident.
A retired farmer, Mr. McChesney made his home with the Throckmortons. He was the father of Mrs. Throckmorton.
The Union Pacific tracks, on the Grand Island to St. Joseph mainline, intersect the Throckmorton farm.
Mr. McChesney is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Rex Cooper of Upland, Calif., and Mrs. Throckmorton; a son, Roy of Ontario, Calif.; seven grandchildren and five great grandchildren.
Funeral arrangements are pending.

Decision On York College Is Awaited

DAYTON, O. (AP)—An Evangelical United Brethren Church commission is scheduled to meet Saturday to make recommendations affecting the future of York (Neb.) College.
The church's commission to study higher education, under the Board of Christian Education, Friday heard York President A. V. Howland report on the situation at the school.
Meeting in executive session, the commission also heard reports from five other commissions.
Bishop Fred L. Dennis, commission chairman, said the group would meet at 9 a.m. Saturday to make recommendations.
Earlier this month, the Nebraska Supreme Court ruled against York College in its attempt to obtain clear title to college land.
Restrictions Involved
Involved in the clear title suit were restrictions in the original deed which said that the property shall not be mortgaged or used for other than school purposes.
The church board had refused to build a new administration building unless clear title was granted. The old administration building was burned down Jan. 3, 1951, and classes have been held in a new dormitory and in other smaller buildings.
The York College land title is vested in a board of trustees which includes 15 church members and laymen. The Rev. Howland had indicated at York earlier that possible closure or merger of the college might be discussed at the meeting here.

Gas Mark Up 7.8%
Indicators used in determining the percentage changes were items such as water pumped, up 11.1 for the entire state; gas used, up 7.8; building activity, up 6.5; electricity consumed, up 5.5; postal receipts, up 5.3; newspaper advertising, up 2.7; retail sales, up 1.6.
The bulletin cautioned that some of the statistical series used in these indicators may be subject to influences other than simple business conditions.
"The amount of water used, for instance, increased more than any other series on account of the relatively dry year. The consumption of electricity is subject to a strong upward trend anyhow, even in depressions. Postal receipts rose above 1952 partly as the result of a 10 per cent jump in second class mail rates, and the more than 20 per cent jump in fourth class rates."

December Volume Rises
In December, 1953, dollar volume of business in the state was up 3.7 per cent over November, but down 1.7 compared with December.
The bulletin said: "A factor of importance to Nebraska today is the recent rise in livestock prices. If this reversal of the three-year downward tendency proves to be permanent, the news for Nebraska is good indeed."
In January, the state's retail sales were up 5.2 per cent over December, but down 1.6 per cent compared with a year ago.
Drug stores and luxury goods stores (sporting goods, furs, jewelry) dropped from five to 10 per cent during January, along with department stores.

Primary Election Canceled At G.I.
GRAND ISLAND, Neb.—The Grand Island City Council, in a special session, called off the primary election which had been scheduled for next Tuesday.
The council adopted a resolution calling off the election after City Attorney Paul Holmberg, belatedly discovered a 1953 law which says a primary election is required only when the number of candidates for the office of councilman is greater than the number to be nominated.
If three were to be elected, six would be nominated. There are only five candidates for the three councilmen post.
The statute, No. 16921, was called to the attention of city officials by the Grand Island Daily Independent. City Attorney Holmberg's ruling followed.

BROKEN BOW, Neb., (P)—The Assembly of God Church will burn its mortgage in a special service next Tuesday night, culminating seven years of work in raising funds.

Tax Evasion Plea Withdrawal Fails

OMAHA (P)—Federal Judge James A. Donohoe denied a request of Claude A. Ruse of Plattsmouth to withdraw a plea of no defense in an income tax evasion case after he was sentenced to 18 months in prison.

The request was presented by attorney Eugene D. O'Sullivan Sr.

Ruse started to serve the 18-month term Jan. 28 for reporting a loss of $1,104.28 in 1949 when the government charged he and his wife had an income of $13,115.46. At the time, Mrs. Ruse was fined $2,500 and costs.

In 1949, Ruse was fined $7,500 by Judge Donohoe when he pleaded no defense to evading income taxes in 1943, 1944 and 1945.

"I judged this case like any other that comes up before me—on its merits," Judge Donohoe told O'Sullivan. "I can only feel that they have sought your assistance in this case knowing the affection I hold for you."

O'Sullivan entered the case after Ruse had been sentenced.

Court Ruling May Hit City Government, School Board

Taxpayers May Delay Payments

OMAHA (P)—The state Supreme Court's decision Friday, which had the effect of requiring Douglas County to refigure its tax bills, may cause hardship on Omaha's city government and the school board.

Although the taxing bodies all eventually will get the same income they expected before the court ruled, there may be some "hidden costs" which will show up in future years, observers said.

The high court ruled that precinct-by-precinct adjustments of property valuations by the County Board of Equalization had not been made within the legal time limit, but it upheld the valuation increases handed the counties by the State Board of Equalization.

The pinch may come, Omaha officials said, because many taxpayers—including some of the biggest ones—will hold up their payments until valuations are finally settled.

And if the delay in setting the new valuations is lengthy, it would mean virtually no tax income for city, county, state, school, University of Omaha and other Douglas County taxing bodies.

It was said that refiguring every real estate tax bill in Douglas County would take several months. A new set of books would have to be made. The present books carry four sets of figures describing the ups and downs of the tax muddle in the last nine months.

Lillian Tybering, secretary of the county board, recalled that it took 25 extra employees about two weeks—including night work—when the state raise was ordered.

Observers said some residential property owners would get a slight cut under the bills they received this year. Other owners, especially those with downtown property, may face some increase. There are about 103,000 pieces of property involved.

Guide Rock Physician, Wife Honored

Residents of the Guide Rock community paid tribute to their physician, Dr. H. S. Reed, and his wife at a recent public reception. The 74-year-old doctor began his Guide Rock practice in 1906. He estimates he has delivered 2,500 babies in that length of time including 16 pairs of twins and one set of triplets. Shown on the table in front of the Reeds is a miniature horse and buggy, gift to the couple from their Guide Rock friends. (Photo Special to The Star)

Action Asked On Shortcut Between 2, 77

ARAPAHOE, Neb., (P)—Directors of the South Platte United Chambers of Commerce want to see something done about building a shortcut highway from State No. 2 to No. 77 south of Lincoln.

The directors, at a meeting here, said the highway had been authorized in the 1940s by the Legislature but that nothing had ever been done about it.

The 14 mile road would run from Palmyra directly west to No. 11.

The full chamber group which held a dinner meeting here heard reports on the SPUCC gas pump irrigation project. The meeting was told that a 14-mile line from Axtell to Wilcox is ready with 44 pumps.

Another 16-mile line from Minden south to Hildreth is also ready.

President M. R. Morgan, Elwood, Vice President Oran King, Superior, and Secretary, Cleatus Nelson, Holdrege, will visit 42 South Platte area communities on a three day trip beginning next Tuesday to promote pump irrigation.

F. S. Francisco, Northwestern Bell Telephone Co., Omaha, was the speaker at the dinner meeting.

Clara Bennett, 75, Dies; Abstractor, And Ex-Postmaster

KEARNEY, Neb., (P)—Funeral services will be held Saturday for Clara Luetie Bennett, 75, former abstractor and later postmaster at Broken Bow.

She opened the abstracting business in Broken Bow in 1910, continuing in it until 1934, when she was named Broken Bow's first woman postmaster.

She was credited with starting a museum in Custer County.

A past president of the Nebraska chapter of the National Assn. of Postmasters, she also was active in the Daughters of the American Revolution, Order of Eastern Star and Daughters of Colonial Wars organizations.

Survivors include a sister and two brothers. Burial will be in Kearney.

Accident Injuries Fatal For Omahan

OMAHA (P)—The death of an 84-year-old Omaha pedestrian, Henry Madison, was counted as Nebraska's 61st and Omaha's third traffic fatality of 1954.

Acting Coroner George Sullivan said an autopsy performed showed that Madison had died of a fractured pelvis and internal bleeding about six hours after he was struck by a car.

Emil Christensen, 49, Omaha, the driver of the car, told officers he had just started up after a traffic light stop and did not see Madison until just before the impact.

Douglas Co. Increases Held Void

The state Supreme Court in an opinion written by Chief Justice Robert G. Simmons and concurred in by all other members of the court held that the Douglas County Board improperly increased the assessed value of real estate by making percentage increases precinct by precinct without proper notice to property owners.

The opinion agreed with one in another case written by Justice Fred Messmore that the State Board of Equalization had acted properly. The state board's action was "valid in all respects" but the county board's resolution making increases was held void.

The opinion pointed out the law on just how and when county boards of equalization can meet.

The opinion pointed out that the county abstract of assessments was prepared by the assessor after the board's resolution rather than before.

"The determination by the state board of the actual and assessed values of the various classes of property in Douglas County is not, in a legal sense, affected by the void order of the county board," the opinion held.

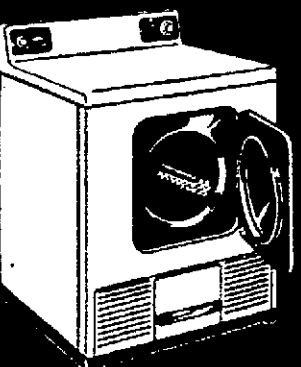

However, the court held that assumption of error because of calculations after increases by the void county board action is "a matter of mathematics" and the correct total is not an act involving exercise of discretion.

The court pointed out that it becomes the duty of the Douglas County assessor to prepare and forward to the state board an abstract of the assessment rolls setting out information required by statute. The tax commissioner has the duty to call a special meeting of the equalization board. If the county clerk has not forwarded the abstract, it becomes the duty of the board to send for it at county expense.

The board then has the duty to calculate the per cent of increase in assessed valuations so as to bring the total assessed value to that determined by the board on July 27, 1953.

'Local Problem'

Commenting on the decision in the Douglas County tax case, Gov. Robert Crosby said, "It is again made apparent that the basic problem in Omaha and Douglas County rests with local officials. This must now be clear to all residents. As frequently pointed out by this office, the necessary protection of the citizens in Douglas County depends on a timely and proper discharge of their duties by appropriate county officials."

Court Upholds Tax Board Equalization Action

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

In a unanimous opinion, the State Supreme Court held that the decision and final order of the State Board of Equalization is not arbitrary or capricious, but is in accordance with the record and the law.

Four counties, Buffalo, Howard, Grant and Douglas, had appealed the final order of the board equalizing and increasing valuations for tax purposes to "actual value" as provided by law.

If inequalities exist it is through failure of county officials to properly function, it was pointed out by the court. The court said it is the function of the county board to deal with assessment of individuals and the state board has no function directly or as a board of review.

County Responsibility
When a county appeals from a state board action, it is their responsibility to show that such action is arbitrary, the court continued.

"The statute does not require any particular method of procedure to be followed by the state board of equalization and assessment in equalizing the assessment of property, real, personal or mixed," the opinion said. "It may adopt any reasonable method for that purpose."

Generally, the opinion was considered a complete vindication of the board's action in following statutory provisions which have been ignored for more than 20 years.

"The opinions are significant in that the Supreme Court by unanimous decision has affirmed that the state board of equalization properly discharged its duties in the manner provided by the Nebraska Constitution and laws," Gov. Robert Crosby commented.

Beck Lauded
He commended Attorney General C. S. Beck and his staff for the legal advice and counsel given the board and the manner in which they conducted the defense in the Supreme Court.

The court action upholds the 43 per cent increase on lots and improvements in Buffalo County; increases of 39 per cent on lots and improvements, 30 per cent on business schedules and 100 per cent increases on household goods and personal equipment in Howard County.

Lands and improvements in Grant County were increased 135 per cent, lots and improvements 126 per cent and business schedules 35 per cent. Douglas County increase upheld were: Lands and improvements 20 per cent, lots and improvement 48 per cent, business schedules 40 per cent and household goods and personal equipment 50 per cent.

The court held unfounded charges that the counties had not received proper notices of action contemplated by the state board.

All of the opinions were written by Justice Fred Messmore and concurred in by the other members of the court.

Trial Held Proper
The damage suit of Bernard Naegele against the Dollen Hardware Company in Omaha, resulting from the alleged discharge of a shotgun in the store while Naegele was making a purchase, should have been allowed to come to trial, the Supreme Court ruled Friday.

The incident occurred in October, 1951. In a Thayer County case, the Supreme Court ruled there was also a cause of action in the suit of Samuel Freeman against Clyde Elder, based on an alleged contract under which Freeman was to buy 160 acres of Thayer County land from Elder and others.

Freeman sought abatement of the purchase price because the Federal Land Bank had reserved one half of the mineral rights until 1954. The District Court's dismissal of the suit was reversed by the Supreme Court.

Birds Pick Farms
STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—Want to know which farmer makes the best use of his land? Just watch the birds—they'll tell. Oklahoma A&M College zoology instructor,

F. M. Baumgartner, says that birds flock for nesting to lands that have plenty of pond water, shrubs and trees and that have seen only limited grazing. And they rarely nest on or near overgrazed or badly eroded lands.

YW Votes Out Race, Religion Questions

The YWCA board of directors has voted to eliminate "race, religion and nationality" from the membership application blanks.

Mrs. John E. Curtiss, chairman of the membership committee, said this is in keeping with the ideals and purposes of the YWCA since such questioning might suggest discrimination.

Committee assignments for the current year were made by the president, Mrs. O. L. Webb, at the monthly meeting.

She also appointed Mrs. George A. Knight and Mrs. L. H. Pauley to head a committee to make plans for National YWCA Week, April 19 to 25. Mrs. H. A. Dillman was appointed chairman of a committee to recruit a delegation to attend the Regional Conference to be held in Minneapolis, Minn., May 7 to 10.

The public affairs committee, headed by Mrs. Robert L. Chas-son, will attend the YWCA Public Affairs Seminar in Washington, D.C., March 16 to 20.

Future events scheduled include a series of seven lectures for expectant mothers beginning April 6, sponsored by the young adult committee. Mrs. Victor West will discuss "The Miracle of Easter" at the March 23 book review.

The new board assignments are:

Arts and crafts—Mrs. Chauncey W. Smith, chairman.
Buildings—Mrs. Wesley C. Becker, chairman.
Finance—Mrs. Clark Jeary, chairman.
Mrs. C. M. Duff.
Food service—Mrs. Lewis H. Anderson, chairman.

Court Upholds Tax Board Equalization Action

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

In a unanimous opinion, the State Supreme Court held that the decision and final order of the State Board of Equalization "is not arbitrary or capricious, but is in accordance with the record and the law."

Four counties, Buffalo, Howard, Grant and Douglas, had appealed the final order of the board equalizing and increasing valuations for tax purposes to "actual value" as provided by law.

If inequalities exist it is through failure of county officials to properly function, it was pointed out by the court. The court said it is the function of the county board to deal with assessment of individuals and the state board has no function directly or as a board of review.

County Responsibility

When a county appeals from a state board action, it is their responsibility to show that such action is arbitrary, the court continued.

"The statute does not require any particular method of procedure to be followed by the state board of equalization and assessment in equalizing the assessment of property, real, personal or mixed," the opinion said. "It may adopt any reasonable method for that purpose."

Generally, the opinion was considered a complete vindication of the board's action in following statutory provisions which have been ignored for more than 20 years.

"The opinions are significant in that the Supreme Court by unanimous decision has affirmed that the state board of equalization properly discharged its duties in the manner provided by the Nebraska Constitution and laws," Gov. Robert Crosby commented.

Beck Lauded

He commended Attorney General C. S. Beck and his staff for the legal advice and counsel given the board and the manner in which they conducted the defense in the Supreme Court.

The court action upholds the 43 per cent increase on lots and improvements in Buffalo County; increases of 39 per cent on lots and improvements, 30 per cent on business schedules and 100 per cent increases on household goods and personal equipment in Howard County.

Lands and improvements in Grant County were increased 135 per cent, lots and improvements 126 per cent and business schedules 35 per cent. Douglas County increase upheld were: Lands and improvements 20 per cent, lots and improvement 48 per cent, business schedules 40 per cent and household goods and personal equipment 50 per cent.

The court held unfounded charges that the counties had not received proper notices of action contemplated by the state board.

All of the opinions were written by Justice Fred Messmore and concurred in by the other members of the court.

Birds Pick Farms

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—Want to know which farmer makes the best use of his land? Just watch the birds—they'll tell. Oklahoma A&M College zoology instructor, F. M. Baumgartner, says that birds flock for nesting to lands that have plenty of pond water, shrubs and trees and that have seen only limited grazing. And they rarely nest on or near overgrazed or badly eroded lands.

The incident occurred in October, 1951.

In a Thayer County case, the Supreme Court ruled there was also a cause of action in the suit of Samuel Freeman against Clyde Elder, based on an alleged contract under which Freeman was to buy 160 acres of Thayer County land from Elder and others.

Freeman sought abatement of the purchase price because the Federal Land Bank had reserved one half of the mineral rights until 1964. The District Court's dismissal of the suit was reversed by the Supreme Court.

Betrothal Announced

MISS DONNA LEE BORGAARD

Mr. and Mrs. William Dewitt Borgaard this morning announced the engagement of their daughter, Donna Lee, to Thomas Greenleaf Tobin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tobin of Tekamah.

No wedding date has been named.

IT SEEMS that our suspicions have been vindicated—that bawdy weather wasn't spring after all. But if this really isn't winter—just where are we? Either way we can't win for losing—so we'll give up on the topic of weather—as long as it rains or snows—or both.

ANOTHER of the spring brides-to-be is Miss Dorris Newman who is to marry Robert Kinsey on April 24. Hear that Miss Newman's courtesy book is filling rapidly—and that in addition to the numerous parties that already have been given in her honor the pages have several new entries.

One of them, for which all of the plans have not been completed, is a luncheon for which Mrs. George Healey and her daughter, Miss Susan Healey; Mrs. Harry Good and her daughter, Miss Susan Good; and Mrs. Roland Mueller and her daughter, Miss Nancy Mueller, will be hostesses on Saturday, March 27.

THE many friends of Mrs. Monroe P. Welton and her daughter, Mrs. James Allhands (Margaret Welton) of Dallas, Tex., will regret to learn that Mrs. Welton is critically ill in Joplin, Mo., where she was visiting relatives. Mrs. Allhands who, with Mr. Allhands, had been in California, flew to Joplin and will accompany her mother back to Dallas in an ambulance plane.

FROM Carleton College, Northfield, Minn., comes news that Miss Sylvia Hancock, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Hancock of Lincoln, will be in the violin section of the Carleton orchestra when it presents a concert a week from today at Skinner Memorial chapel.

LAST evening, so we hear, the members of a dinner club met for a no host dinner at the home of Mrs. A. H. Kurtz. Following dinner the evening was spent informally.

AND tonight is the night that members of the Merrimay Dancing club will be celebrating St. Patrick's day with a party at Hotel Cornhusker. Arranging for the party, which will have a St. Patrick's motif throughout, is a committee composed of Mr.

and Mrs. Tom Harvey, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Barry Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Jones, and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Ackerman.

Guest couples will include Mr. and Mrs. Richard Byrkit, Clay Center; and Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Steeves of Panama.

Thirty guests have been invited to a kitchen shower at 2 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Holz.

YEKTAI
"Fruit Bowl," oil, is a small canvas that has attracted considerable attention in the Nebraska Art Association's spring show, currently to be seen in the Morrill Hall galleries. "Fruit Bowl" is the work of Yektai whose birthplace 32 years ago was Persia—now Iran. Yektai, whose admiration for the work of Van Gogh has influenced his painting, has, in fact, emphasized the application of paint to the canvas as one of the primary effects in his work. Great thick daubs and strokes swirl across the picture's area in a sort of plastic three-dimensional shorthand. His color, much of it straight from the tube, is bright, and there is something about it to suggest the glittering brilliance of the glazed tiles of his native Persia. Yektai was educated in Teheran, Paris—and New York.

Gavels Can Be Fun

MRS. GUY THOMPSON

When the members and delegates of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs gather in Lincoln the first week in April for their annual spring convention, two of the state officers who will be presiding at the official sessions will be Mrs. Guy L. Thompson of West Point, state corresponding secretary, and Mrs. P. O. Marvel of Giltner, state treasurer.

Mrs. Thompson's name can be found on the rosters of many state women's organizations and auxiliaries in Nebraska for she currently is serving as fraternal correspondent for the Order of the Eastern Star in Nebraska, mission study chairman of the United Lutheran Christian Missionary Society in Nebraska, and 12th district committee-woman on the Republican Central Committee.

The wife of Nebraska's state drug inspector, Mrs. Thompson is treasurer of the Nebraska Pharmaceutical Association Ladies Auxiliary, and also devotes much of her time as Cumulative chairman of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. An active member of the United Lutheran Church, Mrs. Thompson has served as superintendent of the Sunday School for 10 years and, as she claims young people as one of her hobbies, she tries to keep her house full of them as much as possible. Her house is also full of books, another of her hobbies.

She also is a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the American Legion Auxiliary, the VFW Auxiliary in West Point, and the Daughters of the Nile in Lincoln.

The mother of one child, Lt. Walter B. Thompson who, serving as a pilot, was killed in World War II over New Guinea, Mrs. Thompson was born near West Point, and following her graduation from the University of Chicago, she was a member of the school faculties at West Point and Wayne.

MRS. P. O. MARVEL

What with her career as music teacher in Giltner, to say nothing of the many hours spent at her desk as editor of The Nebraska Church Woman, official organ of the Nebraska Council of Church Women, and secretary and circulation manager of The Nebraska Christian, organ of the Christian Church in the state, it is hard to see where Mrs. P. O. Marvel of Giltner finds time for her duties as treasurer of the state Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Marvel also, naturally, finds herself more than busy with the activities of her family which includes her husband, a physician who has practiced in Giltner for 40 years; a son Lt. Col. Alden Marvel, who is serving with the army; a daughter, Maurine Marvel Smith, whose husband is a faculty member at Drury College, Springfield, Mo.; and three grandsons and one granddaughter.

Although her main hobby is music (she directs the 4-H and community chorus groups as well as the Hamilton County Women's Chorus), Mrs. Marvel has long been active in the Christian Church, holding many state positions and currently serving as a member of the board of managers of the United Christian Missionary Society with headquarters in Indianapolis, Ind. She is a past president of the county Council of Church Women and served as state World Day of Prayer chairman last year.

A member of the Order of Eastern Star, she is a past worthy matron and served as representative to the 1930 Quebec conference. Mrs. Marvel also has been state president of the Nebraska Medical Society Auxiliary, and for 30 years was in charge of the Red Cross roll call for her community.

A charter member of the Giltner Music Club, of which she is a past president, she has served as president of the Hamilton County Federation of Women's Clubs, as 4th district chairman of music, state music chairman, and state corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Jaycees Name Board

Mrs. William Hastings, president of the Mrs. Jaycees, has announced the election of the following new members of the board, Mrs. Willard R. Beckman, Mrs. Joe Cashen, Mrs. G. L. Cole, Mrs. Roland Dudley, Mrs. Herbert Henry, Mrs. Kenneth Jones, Mrs. D. R. Koser, Mrs. Charles W. Roach, Mrs. John H. Robel, and Mrs. Julian Ross.

The board, from which the new officers will be chosen, will be installed at the club's annual inaugural luncheon to be held March 27, at the Capital Hotel.

We Hear That--

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius R. Speidell have returned from Nashville, Tenn., where they were the guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bob-Bates Lowe. The prime incentive for the trip, however, was Mr. and Mrs. Speidell's grandson, Samuel Sutton Lowe, III, who arrived on Friday, Feb. 26. Mrs. Lowe is the former Joan Speidell of Lincoln.

JUST CAN'T WIN

IT SEEMS that our suspicions have been vindicated—that balmy weather wasn't spring after all. But if this really isn't winter—just where are we? Either way we can't win for losing—so we'll give up on the topic of weather—as long as it rains or snows—or both.

YEKTAI

"Fruit Bowl," oil, is a small canvas that has attracted considerable attention in the Nebraska Art Association's spring show, currently to be seen in the Morrill Hall galleries. "Fruit Bowl" is the work of Yektai whose birthplace 32 years ago was Persia—now Iran. Yektai, whose admiration for the work of Van Gogh has influenced his painting, has in fact emphasized the application of paint to the canvas as one of the primary effects in his work. Great thick daubs and strokes swirl across the picture's area in a sort of plastic three-dimensional shorthand. His color, much of it straight from the tube, is bright, and there is something about it to suggest the glittering brilliance of the glazed tiles of his native Persia. Yektai was educated in Teheran, Paris—and New York.

Time: 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Hostesses: Morning, Mrs. Manfred Keller, Mrs. F. B. Baylor. Afternoon, Mrs. Thomas Rayson, Mrs. Eugene Anderson.

—Two fourth-graders were discussing the merits of some of the paintings in the current exhibit of the Nebraska Art Association at Morrill Hall. The feminine member of the two some became annoyed at her companion's reactions and told him, "You're the type, you doesn't know anything." His adult response came without hesitation, "About women—no!"

—and there's a three-year-old Christina who, when her father told her to behave herself, stated firmly, "Don't talk to me like that—I don't like it." What happened to the young lady after this remark can be left to conjecture.

—a group of parents were discussing their children and the difficulty of pleasing the offspring. As one mother put it, "I just have to constantly prove to myself that I'm not ready for the grave!"

—a local six-year-old was playing with the toy rifle he had received for Christmas and was explaining to his grandmother how it operated. She admonished him never to point a gun at anyone as he was doing to her. "You wouldn't want to shoot me, would you, dear?" she asked. Without a second's pause grandson said, "Yep, I might."

—a group of children were talking about ghosts and telling many weird and "ghostly" tales when one of the small fry broke in to explain his own feelings. "I know there are such things as ghosts, but I try not to believe in them."

—this line from one of Noel Coward's early plays is aptly descriptive of many a well-intentioned, but long-winded speaker to whom one has to listen in the course of a social and business day. "When ever you start on a sentence I want to wave goodbye—as if you're embarking on a long voyage."

—it happens to us all sooner or later. As a client of one of the city's seamstresses said as she walked in with an armload of clothes, "These will have to be altered again—my cargo has shifted."

Writers Guild Dinner Monday

The Lincoln Writers Guild will meet for a 6 o'clock dinner, Monday evening, at the Kopper Kettle after which a program will be presented featuring a talk, "The Story Emerges from Dialogue," by Mrs. Chris Freeman. Manuscripts will be read by members for criticism.

Gavels Can Be Fun

MRS. GUY THOMPSON

When the members and delegates of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs gather in Lincoln the first week in April for their annual spring convention, two of the state officers who will be presiding at the official sessions will be Mrs. Guy L. Thompson of West Point, state corresponding secretary, and Mrs. P. O. Marvel of Giltner, state treasurer.

Mrs. Thompson's name can be found on the rosters of many state women's organizations and auxiliaries in Nebraska for she currently is serving as fraternal correspondent for the Order of the Eastern Star in Nebraska, mission study chairman of the United Lutheran Christian Missionary Society in Nebraska, and 12th district committee woman on the Republican Central Committee.

The wife of Nebraska's state drug inspector, Mrs. Thompson is treasurer of the Nebraska Pharmaceutical Association Ladies Auxiliary, and also devotes much of her time as Cumming County chairman of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. An active member of the United Lutheran Church, Mrs. Thompson has served as superintendent of the Sunday School for 10 years and, as she claims young people as one of her hobbies, she tries to keep her house full of them as much as possible. Her house is also full of books, another of her hobbies.

She also is a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the American Legion Auxiliary, the VFW Auxiliary in West Point, and the Daughters of the Nile in Lincoln.

The mother of one child, Lt. Walter B. Thompson, who, serving as a pilot, was killed in World War II over New Guinea, Mrs. Thompson was born near West Point, and following her graduation from the University of Chicago, she was a member of the school faculties at West Point and Wayne.

MRS. P. O. MARVEL

What with her career as music teacher in Giltner, to say nothing of the many hours spent at her desk as editor of The Nebraska Church Woman, official organ of the Nebraska Council of Church Women, and secretary and circulation manager of The Nebraska Christian, organ of the Christian Church in the state, it is hard to see where Mrs. P. O. Marvel of Giltner finds time for her duties as treasurer of the state Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Marvel also, naturally, finds herself more than busy with the activities of her family which includes her husband, a physician who has practiced in Giltner for 40 years; a son Lt. Col. Alden Marvel, who is serving with the army; a daughter, Maurine Marvel Smith, whose husband is a faculty member at Drury College, Springfield, Mo.; and three grandsons and one granddaughter.

Although her main hobby is music (she directs the 4-H and community chorus groups as well as the Hamilton County Women's Chorus), Mrs. Marvel has long been active in the Christian Church, holding many state positions and currently serving as a member of the board of managers of the United Christian Missionary Society with headquarters in Indianapolis, Ind. She is a past president of the county Council of Church Women and served as state World Day of Prayer chairman last year.

A member of the Order of Eastern Star, she is a past worthy matron and served as representative to the 1950 Quebec conference. Mrs. Marvel also has been state president of the Nebraska Medical Society Auxiliary, and for 30 years in charge of the Red Cross roll call for her community.

A charter member of the Giltner Music Club, of which she is a past president, she has served as president of the Hamilton County Federation of Women's Clubs, as 4th district chairman of music, state music chairman, and state corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Jaycees Name Board

Mrs. William Hastings, president of the Mrs. Jaycees, has announced the election of the following new members of the board, Mrs. Willard R. Beckman, Mrs. Joe Cashen, Mrs. G. L. Cole, Mrs. Roland Dudley, Mrs. Herbert Henry, Mrs. Kenneth Jones, Mrs. D. R. Koser, Mrs. Charles W. Roach, Mrs. John H. Robel, and Mrs. Julian Ross.

The board, from which the new officers will be chosen, will be installed at the club's annual inaugural luncheon to be held March 27, at the Capital Hotel.

We Hear That --

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius R. Speidell have returned from Nashville, Tenn., where they were the guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bob-Bates Lowe. The prime incentive for the trip, however, was Mr. and Mrs. Speidell's grandson, Samuel Sutton Lowe, III, who arrived on Friday, Feb. 26. Mrs. Lowe is the former Joan Speidell of Lincoln.

Rep. Pelly Claims Hanford 'A' Plant Secrets Missing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Thomas M. Pelly (R-Wash.) said that "substantial quantities" of classified documents have disappeared from the Atomic Energy Commission's giant plutonium plant at Hanford, Wash.

The missing documents conceivably could relate to hydrogen bomb production, if an unofficial report about some work done there is correct.

Pelly said he had no information indicating the material was stolen by spies, but "even if it's a matter of poor housekeeping it's a shocking situation."

The congressman reported that Rep. Cole (R-N.Y.), chairman of the Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy, has agreed to conduct an inquiry and that an investigator probably will be sent to Hanford at once.

The Hanford plant is operated for the Atomic Energy Commission by the General Electric Co. "Too Vital"

"The subject of atomic energy is too vital to the American citizen and the safety of this country to ignore the situation," Pelly said at a news conference.

While the main known function of the Hanford plant is to produce plutonium for A-bombs, there has been an unofficial report that material used in the first major hydrogen explosion—which wiped out an entire island at Eniwetok atoll in November, 1952—was produced at Hanford.

This report, by Dr. Ralph Lapp, an atomic scientist who worked on the wartime Manhattan Project, said the material was "tritium," the heavy-weight among the various forms of hydrogen.

18,500 Workers

The billion dollar Hanford plant was built by the Army engineers during World War II and covers 400,000 acres near the Columbia River, whose waters are utilized to cool the atomic reactors, or furnaces. It employs 18,500 workers.

The furnaces are used to change uranium-238 into plutonium, a fissionable material used in atomic weapons.

Pelly said he first heard that some atomic documents were missing from Hanford late last year, but at that time he considered it "just loose talk." Late last month, however, a responsible person in Washington State advised him that the matter merited investigation, he said.

The AEC has confirmed to him informally that atomic papers have disappeared, Pelly said, and while it did not disclose the nature of the classified material, he assumed it was "top secret."

KFOR-TV has been on the air almost nine and one-half months, having started operations at the end of May 1953.

American Broadcasting Company programs, which have been carried by KFOR-TV, will be carried by KOLN-TV starting Sunday, James Ebel, manager of KOLN-TV, announced.

Sale of KFOR-TV by the Stuart Investment Co. to the Fetzer Broadcasting Co., operators of KOLN-TV, was announced Feb. 17. Formal approval of the action by the Federal Communications Commission is still pending. Under the purchase agreement, all assets of Channel 10 will be purchased by KOLN-TV for $300,000.

Ebel said they hope to keep on Channel 12 until the station's new tower near Beaver Crossing is completed. Construction of the tower and building for transmitting equipment, now under way, is expected to be completed by June. The new plant, which will have more than 300,000 watts of

"The subject of atomic energy is too vital to the American citizen and the safety of this country to ignore the situation," Pelly said at a news conference.

While the main known function of the Hanford plant is to produce plutonium for A-bombs, there has been an unofficial report that material used in the first major hydrogen explosion—which wiped out an entire island at Eniwetok atoll in November, 1952—was produced at Hanford.

This report, by Dr. Ralph Lapp, an atomic scientist who worked on the wartime Manhattan Project, said the material was "tritium," the heavy-weight among the various forms of hydrogen.

18,500 Workers

The billion dollar Hanford plant was built by the Army engineers during World War II and covers 400,000 acres near the Columbia River, whose waters are utilized to cool the atomic reactors, or furnaces. It employs 18,500 workers.

The furnaces are used to change uranium-238 into plutonium, a fissionable material used in atomic weapons.

Pelly said he first heard that some atomic documents were missing from Hanford late last year, but at that time he considered it "just loose talk." Late last month, however, a responsible person in Washington State advised him that the matter merited investigation, he said.

The AEC has confirmed to him informally that atomic papers have disappeared, Pelly said, and while it did not disclose the nature of the classified material he assumed it was "top secret."

Bergquist Files For Barney Post

... Co. Commissioner

Rodger Bergquist, 55, Lincoln businessman and member of the board of directors of Sanitary District 1 filed as a candidate on the Republican ticket for county commissioner.

Bergquist will seek the post left vacant by Chauncey Barney who has announced he will not seek re-election. Bergquist has served eight years on the District board, six of them as secretary.

The first to file for the commissioner job, Bergquist said he will stand in his campaign "entirely upon my past record as a public official. I am mainly concerned with one thing—giving careful consideration to all spending of taxpayers' money."

Of two other Lincoln men, who acknowledged interest in Barney's commissioner post if he did not seek re-election, one has taken himself out of the possibility of making the race.

Leo Hill, president of Northwestern Iron and Metal Co., said he would "not be a candidate."

However, Del Lienemann, a Lincoln accountant, said he is still "seriously considering running," but said he would not make a decision until the latter part of March.

Meet Star Carrier Dick Rikli

Dick Rikli, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Rikli, carries the morning Lincoln Star in Beatrice, Neb. Dick carries the downtown route in Beatrice and does an excellent job of servicing his customers.

Since starting on this route on Oct. 31, 1933, he has added 11 customers to his route. His efficient methods of managing his route business have greatly influenced his route building success.

A very active boy, Dick is a member of the Boys of Woodcraft Club and the Boy Scouts of America. He will receive his second class scout rating at the next Court of Honor.

A promising basketball prospect, Dick plays on his seventh and eighth grade team and on the YMCA Wings team.

Dick's regular profit on his route amounts to approximately $19.75 every four weeks. With this regular profit, he buys part of his own clothes, pays for his recreational activities, and is building a savings account.

Dick likes carrying his Lincoln Star route for a number of reasons. He is interested in learning modern business procedures and feels that his route offers an excellent opportunity since he is learning and earning at the same time. The small amount of time he spends on his route each day is proving to be a very wise investment.

Mrs. Blank Fined $100 On Illegal Liquor Sale Appeal

Mrs. Mary C. Blank, 36, was fined $100 by Lancaster District Judge Harry Spencer after she pleaded guilty to unlawful sale of liquor without a license.

Mrs. Blank, who formerly operated the 2009 Club at 2009 West O, had appealed the misdemeanor case from County Court where she was fined $200 following conviction on stipulated evidence.

A companion appeal case, involving her husband, Delorence P. Blank, 42, is pending trial during the District Court jury session beginning March 15.

Both defendants were charged with an offense of Dec. 23, 1933, at the time and place establishment. Evidence in the case was obtained in a "raid" by the Sheriff's department and was instrumental in the revocation of the club's license by the County Board.

Sentencing Set In Manke Case

Sentencing of Don Adrian Manke, 18, of 400 So. 48th, who pleaded nolo contendere in Lancaster District Court to a charge of assaulting a Lincoln girl with intent to do great bodily harm, has been set for March 15.

In his "no contest" plea, Manke stated he earlier not guilty plea in the case which had been pending trial during the jury session beginning March 15.

Finding Manke guilty, as charged, Judge Harry Spencer continued proceedings and ordered Adult Probation Officer George Meyer to make an investigation of the youth's personal history and the case.

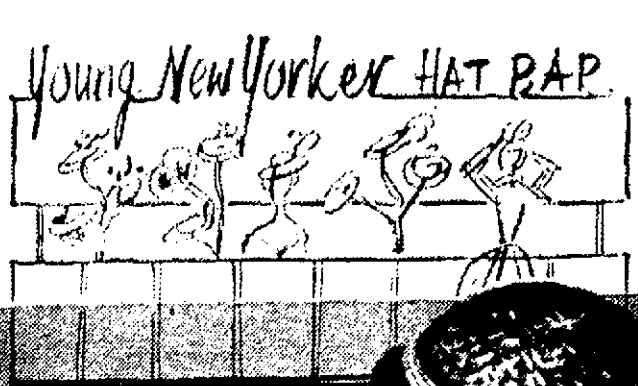

Manke was charged in a Jan. 11 incident in which authorities say he admitted striking with a hammer Ruth Ann Scott, 18, of 524 So. 40th, while giving her a ride to the University of Nebraska campus, where both were students.

After the blows were inflicted, Mrs. Scott managed to get out of the car and was aided by passing motorists. Manke was arrested at the scene and the hammer was located nearby. The girl was treated at a hospital for head lacerations and was released the following day after observation.

Judge Spencer continued Manke's $2,500 appearance bond.

A very active boy, Dick is a member of the Boys of Woodcraft Club and the Boy Scouts of America. He will receive his second class scout rating at the next Court of Honor.

A promising basketball prospect, Dick plays on his seventh and eighth grade team and on the YMCA Wings team.

Dick's regular profit on his route amounts to approximately $19.75 every four weeks. With this regular profit, he buys part of his own clothes, pays for his recreational activities, and is building a savings account.

Dick likes carrying his Lincoln Star route for a number of reasons. He is interested in learning modern business procedures and feels that his route offers an excellent opportunity since he is learning and earning at the same time. The small amount of time he spends on his route each day is proving to be a very wise investment.

Mrs. Blank Fined $100 On Illegal Liquor Sale Appeal

Mrs. Mary C. Blank, 36, was fined $100 by Lancaster District Judge Harry Spencer after she pleaded guilty to unlawful sale of liquor without a license.

Mrs. Blank, who formerly operated the 2009 Club at 2009 West O, had appealed the misdemeanor case from County Court where she was fined $200 following conviction on stipulated evidence.

A companion appeal case, involving her husband, Delorence P. Blank, 42, is pending trial during the District Court jury session beginning March 15.

Both defendants were charged with an offense of Dec. 23, 1933, at the dine and dance establishment. Evidence in the case was obtained in a "raid" by the Sheriff's department and was instrumental in the revocation of the club's license by the County Board.

Sentencing Set In Manke Case

Sentencing of Don Adrian Manke, 18, of 400 So. 48th, who pleaded nolo contendere in Lancaster District Court to a charge of assaulting a Lincoln girl with intent to do great bodily harm, has been set for March 31.

In his "no contest" plea, Manke altered an earlier not guilty plea in the case which had been pending trial during the jury session beginning March 15.

Finding Manke guilty as charged, Judge Harry Spencer continued proceedings and ordered Adult Probation Officer George Meyer to make an investigation of the youth's personal history and the case.

Manke was charged in a Jan. 11 incident in which authorities say he admitted striking with a hammer Ruth Ann Scott, 18, of 520 So. 40th, while giving her a ride to the University of Nebraska campus, where both were students.

After the blows were inflicted, Miss Scott managed to get out of the car and was aided by passing motorists. Manke was arrested at the scene and the hammer was located nearby.

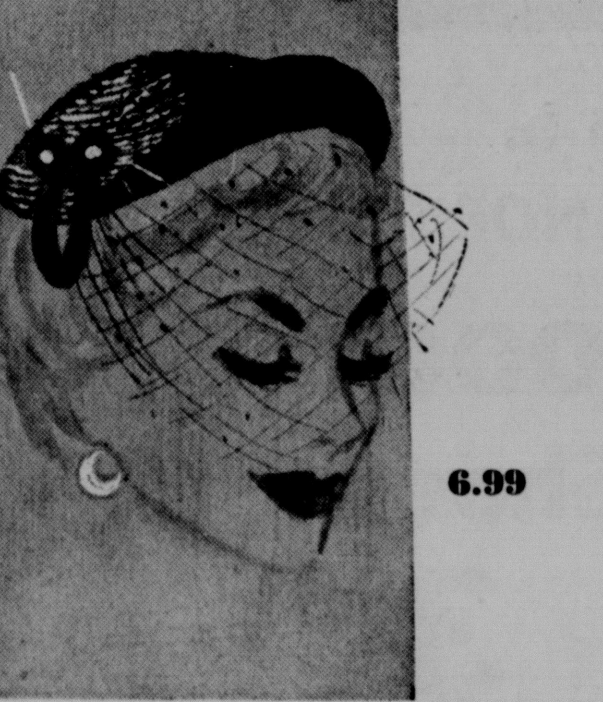

The girl was treated at a hospital for head lacerations and was released the following day after observation.

Judge Spencer continued Manke's $5,500 appearance bond.

Bridges Leads Hit Barrage

Redlegs Win Over Palehose Rookies

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs, effectively bunting 11 hits, downed a makeshift collection of Chicago White Sox Rookies 11-7 Friday in an inter-league exhibition game.

The American Leaguers also made 11 safeties, including home runs by rookies Bill Wilson and Ed White.

Rocky Bridges, a .227 hitter for the Redlegs last season, drove in four runs on a single, walk and sacrifice fly. Joe Szekeley produced three hits.

Four rookie White Sox hurlers attempted to stop the Redlegs. Bill Fisher, a returning serviceman, was clocked off for the loss. Corky Valentine, a rookie right-hander with good control and a live fast ball, was credited with the Red's third triumph in five outings this spring.

The Reds went ahead 2-0 on Szekeley's two-run double in the opening frame. The Chicagoans tied it up in the second on Wilson's homer and then went into the lead 4-2 on White's blow over the center field wall. Both homerun balls were served by Joe Nuxhall. With Jackie Collum pitching in the fifth, Bob Boyd, White Sox first baseman, doubled in two runs and then was cut down in attempting to stretch it into a triple.

The National Leaguers scored four hits in the sixth and recaptured the lead in the seventh, scoring twice on a walk, a triple by Ted Tappe and Bridges' sacrifice fly.

Valentine allowed one run in the eighth and the Redlegs produced two insurance markers in the ninth.

Besides Fisher, Rookies Jocko Thompson, Dick Duffy and Tom

Burd pitched for Paul Richards. Clyde King came in the game in the last inning for the White Sox's final two outs.

Pirates Belt Braves

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—The

Pittsburgh Pirates belted six home runs Friday to rout the Milwaukee Braves, 25-11, in a major league exhibition game.

Frank Thomas clouted two of the homers and Sid Gordon, obtained by trade from the Braves last winter, Jerry Lynch, Jack Lohrke and Brandy Davis added the others. The six blasts gave the Pirates a total of 15 home runs in their last three games.

The Pirates chased the Braves in a nine-run seventh inning.

Lynch, a rookie outfielder from the Piedmont League, led the 19th Pirate attack with two triples and a single in addition to his homer to drive in six runs. Eddie Mathews, the Braves home run king, slammed three triples but also made three errors.

Danny O'Connell, acquired in the Gordon trade, and Rookie

Dick Sinovic hit homers for the Braves.

Phillies Top Yankees

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—

Del Ennis unloaded a two-run homer in the first inning Friday and that served the Philadelphia Phillies for a 2-1 victory over the New York Yankees. The winners made only five hits and the Yankees seven.

Whitey Ford, left-hander who figures to be the ace of the Yankee staff, made his spring debut and pitched three innings.

The two runs off him were unearned. Ford permitted three hits.

Jim Konstanty, the Phil's aged reliever, contributed five scoreless innings after Paul Penson, a lad with no professional experience, throttled the world champions over the first four frames. The Yank tally came in the second on a hit batsman and a single by Ford.

Phil Rizzuto made his 1954 debut, playing three innings.

Louise Suggs Leads

Tileholders Meet

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Louise

Suggs held stoutly to her lead at the midway point of the women's titleholders golf tournament Friday despite a competitive course record 70 turned in by Babe Zaharias.

Miss Suggs, top money winner last year, for the second straight day had to pull her game together after a poor start to card her 71, one under men's par for the 6,672-yard Augusta Country Club course.

The Babe, winner of the last two tournaments the women prohave played, shaved a stroke off par on each nine for her record round. The previous mark of 71 was set by Mrs. Zaharias, of Tampa, Fla., in 1947 and tied by Marlene Bauer of Sarasota, Fla., in 1951.

Louise, two-time National Open champion from Atlanta and winner here in 1946, had a 36 hole total of 144, two strokes better than Mrs. Zaharias, who moved up to second.

Tecumseh's Indians Have Heap Big Support

Intra-mural Cagers Play Prelims To State Finals

Cheerleaders Shed Headdress For Yells

By BOB BERSHIRE

Star Sports Staff Member

Tecumseh's nickname is Indians and what is more appropriate than their cheerleaders displaying Indian headdresses when their team is playing at the Coliseum.

That is exactly what the girls did. However, it seems that headdresses are not too satisfactory as a chapau for lively cheerleaders, so the girls didn't attempt to wear their head-garb while leading cheers.

So their male friends in the second and third rows of the back on this neglected device

Friday afternoon.

Chadron Prep was closing on the Syracuse team in the final period as Syracuse went into a stall. Dick Nannen was the first one to pull a fancy dribbling act that so confused a Chadron defender that he fouled Nannen in a desperate attempt to get the ball.

But that was just the preliminary for an act that Lyle Nannen put on seconds later.

side of the court dribbled to the right side and back to the

mately caused the Chadron players to block each other out in a manner to give Lyle a run to the basket for a setup putting

Syracuse ahead 38-34 with one minute to play.

Warren Lashley of Palmyra

also has impressed with his fine dribbling.

Ed Higginbotham of the University of Nebraska intra-mural department has scheduled the final game of the University's Intra-mural Fraternity Championships for Saturday afternoon at

5:15 before the Class C and D finals are played on the varsity court.

The game will give fans an opportunity to see the class of ball that is played by the various organized groups within the university. The game will pit Phi

Delta Theta fraternity against

Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Many former high school cage stars who paced their teams to victories in state tournaments of previous years will be performing. All university students except basketball lettermen and present squad members are eligible for basketball competition.

Some of the players are stars in other sports. Phi Delta Theta

Giles and Jim Cederdahl, besides being former football lettermen, are on the varsity baseball team.

Cederdahl is from Northeast and

Giles played for Alliance and Benson.

Former Lincoln High cagers

on the Phi Delta team are Dean

Sloan, Joe Carter, Dick Beech-

ner and Jim Sommers. Chick

Battery, former Link cage letterman, manages the team. Frank

Falloon, former Falls City cager, plays center for the Phi Delta entry.

The Sig Eps are led by Jim

Walsh, former Husker varsity squad member, and Dave

Brandon of North Platte. Pat

Mallette of Uehling coaches the team. Mallette is a first-baseman and pitcher on the Husker baseball team.

Whistle-tooters for the contest will be popular Tom ("Tank")

Tolen, former Ord cager, and

Dick Anderson, who played his high school ball at Fairbury.

Heavy Go Signed

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—Ed-

garo Romero, heavyweight fighter from La Pampa, Ariz.,

has been matched with

Germany's Heinz Neuhaus for a ten round bout in Dortmund,

Germany, April 4.

The bout was closed by Ro-mero's co-manager Billy Newman through Bobby Gleason of

New York, who represents German boxing enterprises in this country. Romero, a 225-pounder, has been fighting out of San Francisco for the last year. He will leave for the East next week.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

A report that a majority of the farmers of Iowa and northern Illinois—about 64 per cent—will not participate in the government's corn acreage reduction program does not necessarily imply rebellion against the program, a local spokesman believes.

The report was released from Ames, Ia., and was based on a survey of farmers in that area conducted by Iowa State College in co-operation with the University of Illinois.

An agricultural economist at the University of Nebraska said that no such survey has been conducted in this state and as far as he knows none is being considered. He did, however, offer some interpretation of the Iowa and Illinois figures.

Dr. C. Clyde Mitchell said the 64 per cent figure "indicates that there are just about that many farmers who plan on feeding out their grain." He explained that a farmer can plant all the corn he wants over the allotment and will feel no penalty unless he markets the grain. "If a farmer uses his corn in his own feeding operations he can even plan to sell his front yard and put it to corn."

In commercial corn areas farmers must abide by acreage allotments if they wish to benefit from support prices in marketing the grain. Mitchell said there were no figures available showing what percentage of Nebraska farmers would want to feed out their corn rather than market it.

Iowa Farm Vote Is Not Necessarily Rejection Of Acreage Reduction Plan

A report that a majority of the farmers of Iowa and northern Illinois—about 64 per cent—will not participate in the government's corn acreage reduction program does not necessarily imply rebellion against the program, a local spokesman believes.

The report was released from Ames, Ia., and was based on a survey of farmers in that area conducted by Iowa State College in co-operation with the University of Illinois.

STAN DELAPLANE'S

From Carmel

Summer weather was on the Monterey Peninsula, no matter what the calendar said. A lot of California poppies jumped right up out of the ground and stood around all gold and green. Young ladies and gentlemen jumped into bathing suits and sat on the beach. Older gentlemen jumped into sports shirts and sat at the Beach Club and checked the action.

Out on the rocks off-shore, the sea lions lay around letting Duz do everything. They were doing nothing. The Monarch butterflies were sailing through the sunny air among the mossy pine trees. "The long aisles of pine trees hung with Spaniard's Beard."

That is the way Robert Louis Stevenson said it. Stevenson came to Monterey in 1879. He was courting Mrs. Fannie Osbourne. Courting a married lady caused a good deal of comment and still does.

Stevenson was a poet. He spoke poetically of the Spanish moss. One day he was fire-fighting in the Monterey hills. He had an idea that Spanish moss was fireproof. Like a man looking for a leak in a gas heater, he touched a match to it. Pretty soon Monterey was fighting two fires. They were also looking for who started it. With a rope.

Stevenson sat down in Jules Simoneau's saloon drinking brandy. He said the man who started it deserved to hang. But he did not offer further information. He was a poet. Hanging is no improvement to poetry.

Monterey is extremely historical. It was the Spanish capital of California. All the pretty Spanish girls went to dances and the Spanish boys broke cascarons on their heads. Cascarons are eggshells filled with confetti.

They still have a cascaron ball each year in Monterey. The other day I was having lunch. A short history of Monterey was printed on the napkin.

I was amazed to find the place was discovered by a Mr. Cabrillo. Aghast, too. For only a month before I had written a piece about Monterey. I had Mr. Vizcaino discover it.

Anyway, next day I found that the napkin was wrong. Never, never take your history off a restaurant napkin. Cabrillo may have LOOKED at Monterey. But Vizcaino landed there.

That is poet's license. Sometimes I think Spanish moss is fireproof, too.

All kinds of people besides the Spanish thought Monterey was the place to live. Richard Henry Dana came here when he was loading hides on the Alert.

"Monterey, as far as my observation goes, is decidedly the pleasantest and most civilized looking place in California," he wrote in "Two Years Before the Mast."

He added though: "But the Monterenos were idle, thriftless people and can make nothing for themselves. The country abounds in grapes, yet they buy bad wines made in Boston..."

Nowadays the Peninsula is divided. Pacific Grove, founded by church groups, where you can buy no wine, Monterey, filled with Italian fishermen, where you buy nothing but wine; Carmel, the art colony, where wine goes with the exhibit; Pebble Beach, home of the rich, where naturally we drink champagne.

Mr. Stevenson, himself, preferred brandy. He found it kept the chill off. He spoke of it so highly and often in his letters to Scotland that I tried a drop myself the other eve.

And that is how it happened that I came home singing "M'Ginty's Meal and Ale" and "The Bonnie Earl o' Moray." Then the management phoned.

There is hardly any poetic license on the Monterey Peninsula these days.

Weather Ahead

Here is the five day weather outlook for Nebraska and Kansas: Average temperatures through Wednesday 5 to 10 degrees below normal, colder Saturday, slow warming trend indicated next week; normal maximums lower 50s Nebraska, upper 50s Kansas; minimums lower 20s west, upper 20s east Nebraska; mid 30s Kansas; precipitation expected to range from little if any southwest sections to near .50 of an inch northeast Nebraska Friday night and snow eastern Nebraska Friday night and snow western portions likely Monday or Tuesday.

Inheritance Taxes Hit Record $176,096

A record-breaking $176,096.92 in inheritance taxes were paid to Lancaster County during 1953. This compares with $66,515.12 during 1952 and approximately $32,000 in 1951, according to County Judge Herbert A. Ronin. Two large estates accounted for the bulk of the funds—that of the late Frank Woods, Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. founder, and the late Blake Maher, insurance executive. The Woods estate paid approximately $21,000 and the Maher estate about $79,000, Ronin said. While the Woods estate was approximately four times the size of the Maher estate, Judge Ronin noted that much of the former, left in charitable trusts, was tax exempt. Activity in inheritance-tax work has increased, said Judge Ronin, because of recent statutes providing for special proceeds and because of taxation changes on estates held in joint tenancy, not taxed prior to 1949. Also adding to the increase in court fees for 1953, has been the number of old estates closed by Judge Ronin during the year. The court closed 250 of 400 estates that have remained open for periods ranging from two to 10 years. While court costs are charged against estates during their pendency, these are not collected until closure. A 7 time Journal & Star Want Ad is always most effective and costs less in the long run. Place your ad for 7 days, then when you get results, cancel it and pay only for the number of days it runs. It is easy and inexpensive too. 10 words 7 days only $2. Ohio Oil Company Asks Rate Boost

Ohio Oil Co. appeared before the State Railway Commission seeking an increase from 5 cents to 7 1/2 cents per barrel for collecting crude oil in Cheyenne County and transporting it for delivery to the Gurley substation.

This is the first time a pipeline company has appeared before the commission seeking a rate increase and action was taken under advisement. There was no opposition to the application.

The Ohio company maintains 57 miles of pipeline to gather oil from the wells. Other pipelines in the state are interstate operators and rates fixed by the I.C.C.

Jack H. Rice, Finley, O., assistant manager of pipe lines for Ohio, and R. P. Shuck, Finley, department supervisor of pipeline accounting, testified that present rates do not bring a fair return. They said other gathering lines in the area are allowed the rate asked by Ohio.
